Chamber representatives, member of the historical society, a developer and homeowners' groups huddled late in the afternoon to thrash out the problem of a storage facility near Dublin's Heritage Center

Mini-storage foes buzzing as Dublin storm brews

DUBLIN — A hornet's nest stirred up between a developer and local preservationists and homeowners over a mini-storage facility proposed to be built across from Heritage Center on Donlon Way in Dublin has begun to buzz a little louder.

During a meeting Thursday afternoon at Old St. Raymond's Church, interested parties discussed pros and cons. Representatives included Bob Nahas, developer, Dublin Chamber of Commerce vicepresident, Dave Burton, members of local homeowner associations, Marie Cronin, president of the Dublin Historical Preservation Association and similar people.

Opponents of the proposed facility claim it will be an eyesore and ruin the historic atmosphere Heritage Center is trying to preserve. The developer said his company would do everything in his power to attractively screen the proposed mini-storage project. He said Nahas Company would welcome input from local people.

The developer is in the process of trying to get the 4.3 acres in question rezoned from H-1 to P-D. The latter zoning would restrict development to the mini-storage project.

Nahas said their project would generate less traffic, present a lower profile and be less trouble in general than other types of business. Cronin suggested that Nahas abandon the idea of the mini-storage and erect a project like Old Town in Sacramento.

No final decisions were reached. Nahas Company will try to gain approval for their proposed project tomorrow from the Alameda County Planning Commission.

Braeseke trial drama

PCP, the current mind distorting drug in vogue among the drug set, went on trial yesterday as attorney James Crew opened his defense of Barry Braeseke, the 21-year-old Dubliner accused of murdering his father, mother and grandfather last August in their Betlen Drive home.

Prosecutor Michael Cardoza closed his case after playing an emotional, hour-long tape recording of Braeseke's confession. The trial has become the focal point of courthouse activity as more than 25 spectators — law students, court "groupies" and a dozen grammar school children — sat stoney faced through yesterday's proceedings.

The trial resumes this morning when Steven E. Lerner, a nationally known expert on PCP, comes under Cardoza's cross examination before Alameda County Superior Court Judge Stanley P. Golde.

Recycling honors

A glass manufacturer presented awards to two Valley residents yesterday for their work in recycling programs. Lois Hill of Livermore, and Dublin's Althea Miller were honored by Owens-Illinois Glass Co.

Lois was part of the Livermore recycling effort that sold 336,660 pounds of glass last year.

Althea took part in the Dublin effort resulting in 168,005 pounds of glass sold.

County board hears 'New Town' arguments

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — Is "New Town" a "cost effective, environmentally sound, socially desirable alternative to urban blight" as its proponents claim?

Or is it another inefficient, computer suburb that will wreck havoc with local government and the Valley's environment?

County supervisors got their first official exposure to the arguments yesterday as they opened public hearings on the proposed general plan amendment, the first major overhaul of the Valley's master plan in a decade.

County planning commissioners earlier this year approved a plan calling for development of "New Town," Harlan Geldermann's proposed 45,000 population village in the Las Positas Valley north of Livermore, along with 2 per cent annual growth in Livermore and Pleasanton, and extension of Dublin to its natural boundaries.

The Valley would reach a 1995 population of 186,000 people if the recommended plan is approved.

But the board of supervisors has the final say.

While the arguments on both sides were the same as those presented before planning commissioners in a host of meetings, questions by individual supervisors — and one bold position paper — indicated their leanings.

Supervisor Valerie Raymond of Livermore grilled Geldermann consultants Wilsey and Ham for some 40 minutes with detailed questions on utilities, municipal services and land use.

On the other hand, north county supervisor Fred Cooper of Alameda took on Geldermann's opponents as they made their presentations.

And Berkeley-Oakland representative John George blasted the proposal with a seven-page position

Heritage Two days of art treasure

PLEASANTON — The annual Heritage Festival and art show, sponsored by the Pleasanton Art League, opens Saturday at Amador Community Park, adjacent to the Cultural Arts Center.

A wide variety of booths and demonstrations are scheduled throughout the two-day show, which will operate from 10 a.m.

to 5 p.m. both days.

The Art League's annual spring show, slated for the Cultural Arts Center at 4447 Black Ave., will be previewed with a champagne gala tonight from 7:30 to 10. An awards presentation is scheduled for 8 p.m. Amy Dobbins will serve as hostess and Mac McGlothlin as host.

Art show categories will include oils, watercolors, pastels, graphics, acrylics, textiles, mixed media, sculpture, pottery and jewelry.

The booths in the park are being set up around the Cultural Arts Center and swim center.

Upwards of 200 exhibits have been readied for the two-day event, which includes a youth art show (pre-school through high school), a paint-in, yarn exhibit, food booths and entertainment.

The Festival again is the result of the cooperative efforts of the Pleasanton Art League, Pleasanton Department of Human Resources, and Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce.

The Heritage Festival and street faire of previous years, though in existence for a very few years, has carved out an indelible niche in the Valley's list

Drought relief

Major govt. plan to rescue farmers

Banking on more rain next winter, Valley farmers and ranchers are getting the chance to share in a $100 million government drought relief conservation program.

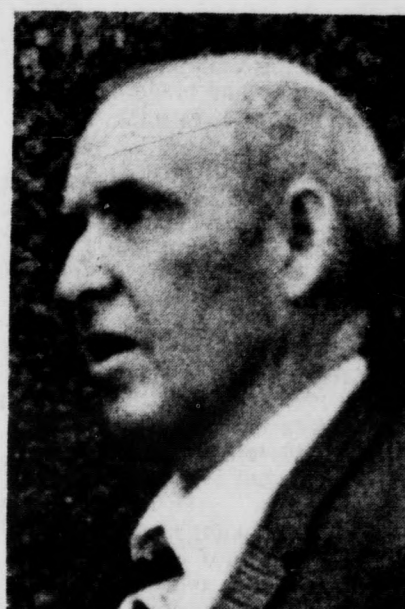

Nobody's willing to guess whether the state's worst drought will progress into an unheard-of third year. But if it doesn't, the newly announced program will help ranchers get their ranges back in shape and will help farmers prepare for a less disastrous 1978.

Individual ranchers and farmers are eligible for up to $2,500 in federal money for conservation practices that will prepare their drought-stricken land for productivity next year. Currently, stock ponds have gone dry for the first time in this century and hillsides are bare — vulnerable to erosion from the first hard rain — because the grass cover has died or been grazed off.

The new drought relief comes in the form of an 80 per cent cost-sharing offer for qualifying projects. That means a farmer or rancher can build a new stock pond, clean out an old one, re-seed and fertilize rangeland, enlarge a well, plant barley or do anything else to get the property ready for next year.

The government will pay four-fifths of the cost up to $2,500.

Bob Roan, conservationist at the U.S. Soil Conservation Service office at 1560 Catalina Court, Livermore, is helping applicants plan their projects. Final application must be made at the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office in Concord.

So far, says Roan, few of Alameda County's 1,800 eligible farmers and ranchers have taken advantage of the program, although everyone has been hard hit. Dry farmers have not been able to raise much of a grain crop this year. For example, in 1975, the county produced 9,100 acres of barley. Last year, thanks to the drought, that total was down to 1,300 acres, most of that on irrigated land.

In January, 1976, there were 36,100 head of cattle in Alameda County; this January, all but 10,500 had been sold off; and by now that total is decimated, according to Roan, who helps ranchers manage their land with his expertise in conservation

Collins unveils his unique defense at a federal hearing

SAN FRANCISCO — Former presidential candidate Richard Collins of San Ramon yesterday testified in a Civil Service Commission hearing that he campaigned for a "second" presidential office and thus did not violate provisions of the Hatch Act, which forbids Civil Service workers from running for office.

Collins produced a two-year-old press release which stated that if a bill to establish a two-president executive branch won approval, "R.C. (Collins) will run on The Two Presidents' ticket."

The one-day hearing ended without an announced verdict. Administrative Law Judge John J. McCarthy will make a recommendation on Collins' fate to the Civil Service Commission board, which will then make a final decision.

The 54-year-old mail carrier finished his crusade as he had promised, emphasizing the alleged illegality of all presidents since George Washington and demanding that presidents resign from their respective political parties once elected.

Collins began his run for the nation's top spot in July 1975. His platform pushed for reform of the nation's executive branch based on the people's right to "presidential accountability."

Joyce Evans, assistant general counsel of the Civil Service Commission and the "prosecuting" attorney at yesterday's hearing, used Collins' own press releases in attempts to prove he had campaigned for president. Collins aided her efforts, supplying releases to prove the government's case and furnishing dates of certain events.

Allen blasted for attacking

Leshner News Bureau

OAKLAND — Rapid transit director Robert Allen of Livermore Thursday took a tongue-lashing from a fellow director for talking to the press.

The hassle stemmed from comments Allen made regarding an insurance deal approved by the Bay Area Rapid Transit board April 21.

And director Eugene Garfinkle asked Allen to retract his statement that the decision to make Dinner Levison the BART insurance broker was a "buddy-buddy" deal and hinted of "cronyism."

Allen, though, stood by his statements and, admitting he had no facts to back up his charges, said "I have an intuition. I felt the relationship ... was one of incest."

He explained that he had opposed the $72,000 insurance contract because the firm would replace BART insurance broker Lee Hoaglund.

Hoaglund, he continued, had been involved with Dinner Levison when it was part of a BART insurance consortium known as Transit Insurance Administrators.

Garfinkle said he took Allen's remarks personally and felt Allen should either substantiate them with fact or retract them.

Allen acknowledged that he had made the comments "in the heat of the moment."

At the time he had also called for BART to be taken over by the state Legislature.

Director Harvey Glasser, Alameda, said board members should not make comments based "on suspicion or notion."

First lady boss in park system

The slag heaps glowed eerily at night, black smoke from their continuous smoldering darkening the sky. There was a coal mining town on the road to Wilkes-Barre, Pa. When Joanne Dean's family drove by it by day, she could see the piles of castoff rock and low-grade coal, burning slowly from spontaneous combustion.

Passing it at night, Joanne was fascinated by the ghostly glow.

That was 30 years ago and 3,000 miles away. But Joanne, a naturalist now with the East Bay Regional Park District, is remembering the look of that coal mining town as she prepares to take over one of EBRPD's newest parks, Black Diamond Mines Regional Preserve near Antioch ... where slag heaps are all that's left of four coal mining towns that flourished 100 years ago.

Currently a naturalist at Sunol Regional Wilderness, Joanne will be the first woman in the EBRPD system to hold a "resident naturalist" title and the administrative responsibilities that come with it.

She assumes her new job in mid-June at the unique but mostly undeveloped 2,500-acre park. Currently the only facilities available to the public are a parking lot, picnic area and hiking trails.

By next fall, Joanne hopes to open some of the old mines up for public tours. They are currently being made safe by EBRPD staff.

In 1973, Joanne interviewed residents of the Antioch

Pittsburg area and pieced together a history of the park including many old pictures of the bustling mining towns in the "Carbondale District," as it was called then.

She estimates 10,000 people may have lived there when mining was at its height between 1860 and 1900. "I have a feeling for what it must have looked like because of my early experiences in Pennsylvania," she says.

Besides the slag heaps, which hold rocks of many colors, the only other trace of the old town is a cemetery which has been heavily vandalized. Restoration of the site, the only reminder of the many Welsh and later Chinese laborers who died there, will make it a spot where visitors may pause and remember.

Since its acquisition by the park district four years ago, Black Diamonds has been an EBRPD headache because of target shooting, digging for old bottles, grave robbing and other forbidden activities.

As head of the park, Joanne plans to "replace destructive activities with constructive ones."

With 10 years of experience as a naturalist, she has helped to develop interpretive programs at Del Valle (Livermore), Coyote Hills (Fremont) and Sunol Regional Parks and plans to do the same at Black Diamonds. Self-guiding nature trails, tours led by specialists for school groups and walks to old town sites are some of the projects she has planned.

She also plans to introduce visitors to some of the unusual birds, animals, trees, plants and insects found there.

Her staff at the start will consist of a naturalist helping out six months of the year and two groundspersons. If the need arises, she may train volunteer docents to work with visitors, as she has done at Sunol.

As friendly toward gopher snakes and magpies as she is towards park visitors, Joanne says she developed a love for being outdoors growing up on a farm in Pennsylvania.

She majored in English at college in Albany, N.Y., but switched to a German and biology double major. After graduating, she married Peter Dean and moved to California where he had a job waiting at Sandia Lab, Livermore.

Returning to college for a California teaching credential, Joanne began to look into park work but was discouraged by her counselor at San Jose State, who assured her, "Women don't work in parks."

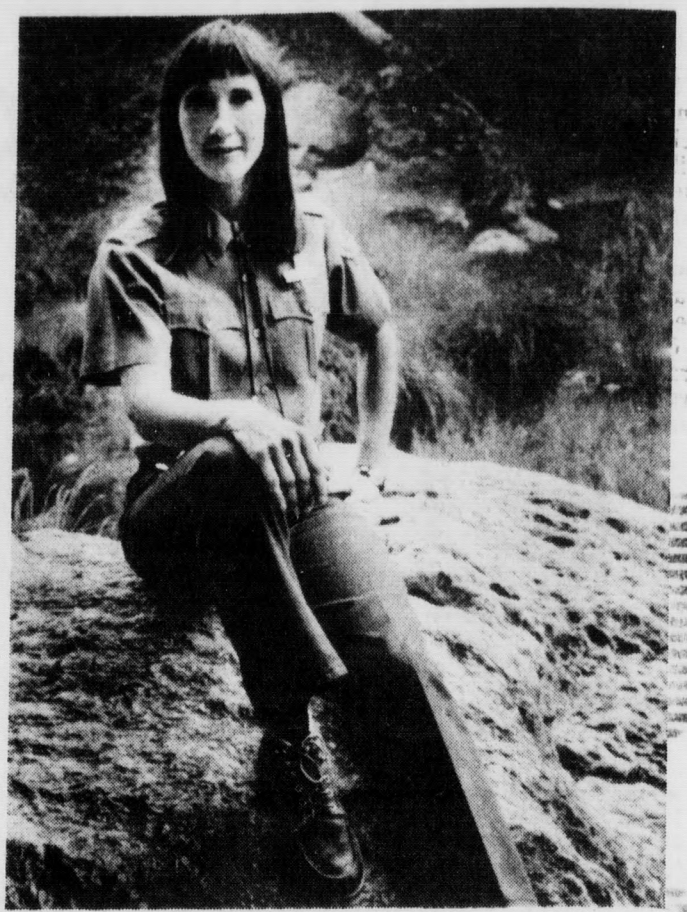

Luckily, she finished her degree at Cal State, Hayward, where she was encouraged to take a park intern job at Sunol. A few months later the naturalist position opened up and she took it.

"Now," she laughs, "they have 300 people applying for openings. Ten years ago they practically had to go out and look for people to take the jobs!"

Does she expect any resentment from the men she'll be overseeing in her new position? "Not at all," she reports.

"They're a great bunch of people."

Lone bandit rips off local store

LIVERMORE — A lone bandit who said he had a weapon in his pocket walked in the Valley Market yesterday and made a clerk hand over an estimated $537.

Police are still looking for a "clean cut" blond in his late teens or mid twenties, who fled from the store on Chestnut Street about 4 p.m. Described as being at least six feet tall, he was last seen wearing a blue jacket and dark glasses.

"He was calm," Cara Simpson, 16, told police. "I was scared, but he ran out the door."

"The man bought a magazine and some cough drops," Simpson told The Times, "then asked for all the bills in the cash register."

"He also asked for the money under the drawer," said nearby clerk Billie McClelland.

Patrolman Gaylen Johnson said no one actually "saw a weapon." He said, "There is still no proof at this time whether or not the person had one."

Clerk Cara Simpson told police the bandit was "calm".

Free swim Saturday at SR pool

DUBLIN — You can jump in the pool tomorrow at 8157 Village Parkway free of charge from noon to 4 p.m. and each Saturday and Sunday thereafter.

The Valley Community Services District Recreation Department sponsors this swim program.

In addition to these sessions, the San Ramon Olympic Pool adjacent to California High School is holding recreational swimming on Saturdays and Sundays from noon to 4 p.m.

Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. adult fitness and teen and adult recreational water games will be offered.

Cycles, skateboards

New park needs mulled

LIVERMORE — Park and recreation officials are still searching for ways to start park facilities for motorcycle and skateboard enthusiasts.

When directors of Livermore Area Recreation and Park District met Wednesday, they heard that $2 million may be available throughout the state for off-road vehicle parks.

"When you split $2 million in California you have a lot of competition," quipped LARP General Manager Bill Payne as he recalled the intense recent competition in Alameda County to split $4 million in state park funds.

The off road park money comes from a percentage of fees paid by cycle owners when they get annual license stickers.

Payne said he will work with the city's noise abatement committee to find a suitable site if funds are available. Other problems with both proposed projects center around liability insurance. Both have been labeled high risk.

Payne is "more optimistic" about the skateboard parks proposal. He has discussed use of surplus gasoline stations with ARCO and Phillips petroleum companies and has been contacted by three possible concessionaires who want to operate a skateboard park in Livermore.

Payne expects a specific proposal soon from Skateboard Parks Development Company of Santa Monica.

In other business, LARP directors:

— agreed to meet Tuesday night for a first look at the new budget.

— explored possibility of joining other park and recreation districts in a cooperative insurance program.

— approved a 5 per cent across-the-board increase in employee salaries.

— agreed to match $600 raised by the Emma C. Smith School PTA and the Mendenhall School for a special jogging, exercise course at Max Baer Park and El Padro Park.

— decided that half the

LARP meeting room would be reserved for non-smokers. No smoking policies for other LARP facilities will be discussed at a later meeting.

Murray candidate with statewide curriculum punch

The fourth and final candidate to be interviewed for the Murray School District superintendent's position has perhaps the most impressive background in the area of statewide curriculum, affirmative action and teacher preparation committees.

Jessie Kobayashi, presently assistant superintendent of the Whisman Elementary School District in Mountain View, toured the Murray district Thursday in the company of Local Advisory Committee members. She, as did the three previous finalists for the position, submitted to public questioning at an open meeting last night at Frederiksen School in Dublin.

With the exception of two years spent as an elementary school teacher in Easton, New Jersey, Mrs. Kobayashi has spent her entire professional career in the Whisman district.

Her statewide educational affiliations have included the following:

Member of state committee on curriculum and instruction, 1975-77; member, state committee for teacher preparation and licensing, 1974-75; chairperson, state special committee on Title IX, 1976-77; chairperson, state women's caucus, 1975; Mrs. Kobayashi has also authored articles for the California School Board Journal on Title IX, affirmative action.

A native of Gilroy, the 44-year old administrator earned her bachelor's and masters from San Jose State, and her doctorate in education administration from the University of Pacific.

Mrs. Kobayashi began her teaching career with sixth grade classes in the Whisman district in 1954. In 1957 she began her two year stint in New Jersey and returned in 1959 to teach the next five years in the Whisman district in the second through sixth grades.

She was an elementary school principal from 1964 through 1967 and then moved into district-wide administration as director of curriculum. She continued in that position through 1974.

In the latter year she was appointed assistant superintendent.

Her husband is a research and design engineer with ITEK and they have three children, ages 20, 18 and 12.

The Murray district board is scheduled to meet in closed session this evening to review each of the four candidates and determine which one or two they will visit in their home districts.

Finalists, in addition to Mrs. Kobayashi, are Floyd Davis, an assistant superintendent for the Seattle City School District, Byron Antcliff, superintendent of the Huron School District in suburban Wayne County, Michigan, and William Grafft, assistant superintendent of the Orinda School District.

Trustees must also take into consideration that one, if not all of the candidates are being interviewed for positions in other districts.

Announcement of the new Murray School District superintendent is expected to be made at the board meeting of Monday, June 6.

The next regular session of the Murray board is this Monday.

Rare Indian art at festival

In the shadow of an Indian tepee, young Gary Schwaegerle of Pleasanton will demonstrate his skill in the ancient art of Indian sand painting as part of the multitude of activities for kids at the Pleasanton Heritage Arts Festival this weekend.

Gary, who studies his library of books on Indian art for design ideas, became interested in Indian crafts such as basketmaking, sand painting, leathercraft and beadwork through the Boy Scout organization. He is an Eagle Scout with 54 merit badges, and his father, Gerhard, is past commissioner for the Twin Valley District.

The young Foothill High sophomore was recently honored with first-place recognition by Scouting's San Francisco Bay Council for his sand painting, an example of which is now on display at the council offices in Oakland. Last year two of his sand paintings were admitted to the adult section of the Pleasanton Art League Show.

To execute a sand painting, Gary first applies special glue to pressed board, then fills in the sand background and lets it dry. The design is then created one color at a time. Most prized sand for such work is the very fine, white sand from ocean beaches.

Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., the West Wind Youth Center will be the site for children's participation art activities — a glue-in, paint-in, and a climb-in "fibre environment" of knots and weaving. Amador High School students will brighten young faces with elaborate make-up.

Order of the Arrow Lodge No. 282 erects the Indian tepee Sunday morning, and Gary will demonstrate sand painting from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. that day.

Young artists and their work will be the focus of a display of art and crafts of all kinds open to the public at the center.

Special week for farmers

This Sunday, local church bulletins will sport an attractive brown cover that says, in Gothic letters: WHEN WE CARE.

It's a reminder of Soil Stewardship Week, commemorating good soil conservation practices which benefit everyone by insuring the continuing productivity of the land.

Fountainhead of the local Soil Stewardship Week effort is the office at 1560 Catalina Court shared by the Alameda County Resource Conservation District and the U.S. Soil Conservation Service.

"It's a week to remember where our food and resources come from: the land itself," says conservationist Bob Roan. The two local agencies encourage Alameda County's estimated 1,800 farmers and ranchers to prevent erosion and pollution, control predators, conserve water and manage their land with a sophistication unknown to the average homeowner.

Some 18,000 pieces of literature from the National Association of Conservation Districts have gone to local churches in the 23rd annual observance.

According to Harry Lefever of Livermore, president of the Alameda County Resource Conservation District, "We hope that during Soil Stewardship Week, millions of Americans will pause for a moment to consider their responsibilities for the protection and proper care of the earth."

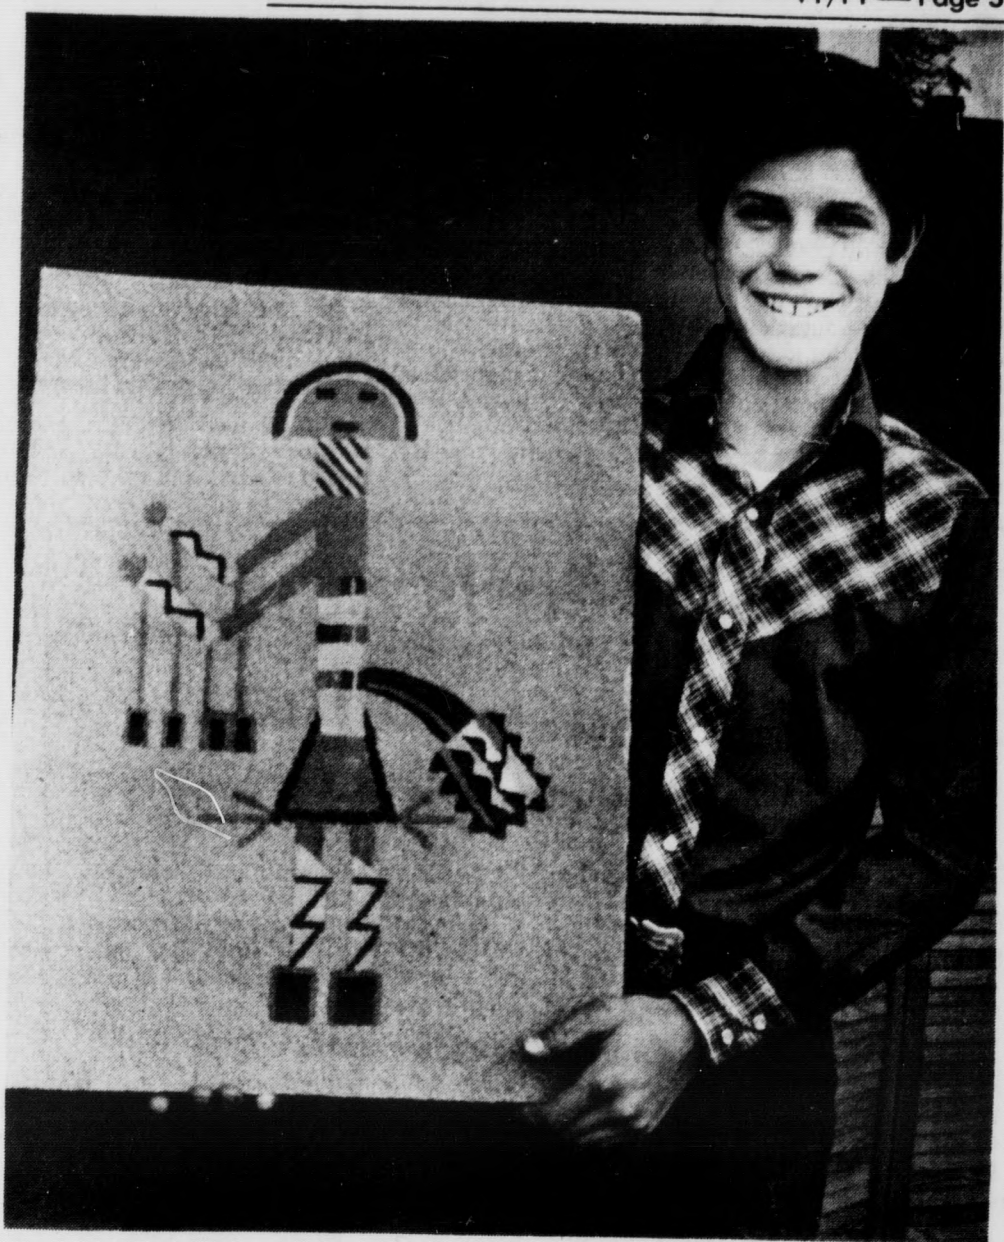

Besides assisting farmers' and ranchers' efforts, the local Resource Conservation District offers several projects which benefit the general public:

• A conservation teacher, Mrs. Maile Arnold, visits schools to introduce conservation concepts to the students.

• The district sponsors three contests every year: a land judging contest for participating high schools, a teacher of the year competition and a speech contest open to high school agriculture students.

• The district takes part in Livermore's annual Ecology Fair.

• Three and a half acres of native and imported adapted plants useful in the local climate are maintained by the district at a "Woody Block" nature area in Pleasanton.

Gary Schwaegerle will demonstrate his skill in Indian sand painting Sunday at the Pleasanton Heritage Art Festival. He holds an example of a design based on 19th Century Navajo art.

of major events. A prime mover in the Festival's brief history has been the Pleasanton Art League, formed in 1969 by some 14 Valley artists, principally Warren Wade of Pleasanton.

Wade served as first president. Among the others active in forming PAL were Lucille and Allan Bloomfield, Eunice Dobbin, Nancy Kingsbury, Doreen Price, Charlotte Severin, Irene Pons, Alma Rasmussen, Evelyn Wright, Mary Gettman, Betty McLeod, Marian Vargas, and Chris Stevens. The membership has grown steadily to a present 125 and meetings are held the third Monday of each month.

It was the driving force of the Art League, combined with the efforts of the city council and City of Pleasanton family, that brought about the Cultural Arts Center.

As Phyllis Wentworth of the Art League notes, "We began over seven years ago trying to find a facility. We originally looked into the possibility of renovating the old dairy barn (that stood on the site now occupied by the CAC). Over the years the Art League has donated thousands of dollars for various art supplies and equipment for the center, including $2,000 for a gas kiln, $700 for three kick wheels (for pottery), and $375 for an electric wheel.

The Pleasanton Bicentennial Committee, Pleasanton Jaycees, and Pleasanton Women's Club have also offered major contributions.

The weekend event will feature entertainment during the afternoon hours, organized by Bev Hamlin.

Among the groups performing Sunday are Kathy Dahlbacka's Cabaret Show, 2 p.m.; John Wagner's Bluegrass band, 3 p.m.; and the Pleasanton Bicentennial band at 3:30.

$100 million for farmers

"The herds are probably at less than one-tenth of their normal size," Roan estimates. "The best managers have about liquidated their herds because it will cost more to feed them this summer than the animals will bring on the market."

For example: Feeding one animal for six months, when feed is $90 a ton, costs $270. Meanwhile, ranchers are getting $200 to $250 per animal because the supply is so great that prices are down.

"This summer is the time to stock up on beef," Roan predicts. "Next year there won't be any."

If the drought ends with next winter's rains and range forage makes a normal showing in spring '78, it will still take about five years for herds to come back to normal because a breeding cow produces only one calf per year and a calf doesn't start reproducing until it's about two years old.

Since the entire West has been affected, there won't be a ready source from which local ranchers can buy animals to fill out their herds.

Special awards for recycling

OAKLAND — Livermore's and Dublin's glass recycling efforts in 1976 yesterday earned the Valley recycling centers two of the top awards presented by Owens-Illinois glass manufacturers here.

Lois Hill of Livermore and Althea Miller of Dublin received plaques which praised their groups for "support and participation" in the company's glass recycling program.

Hill and Miller attended a glass recycling workshop held by the company at the Edgewater Hyatt hotel, where numerous groups from the Bay Area gathered to learn how to establish their own recycling centers.

Throughout various slide shows and presentations, several speakers referred the new recyclers to efforts of the two Valley groups. Harry Lucky, the company's recycling coordinator, called the Livermore operation a "very efficient system."

Former New York Giants football star Kyle Rote, a traveling spokesman for the Owens-Illinois recycling program, praised all 14 Bay Area groups and noted glass recycling "reduces our solid waste load, reduces energy and creates new glass while helping groups raise money."

"We need teamwork and old glass containers," said

Kyle. "These people took the task upon their shoulders."

Livermore's recycling center last year sold 336,660 pounds of glass to various companies and earned $4,202.83 for its glass recycling efforts. Dublin sold 168,005 pounds for $2,010.74. They were named second and third behind a Berkeley recycling center.

"Most of us take glass jars and bottles for granted because we only look at what's in them," said John Schweickert, company administrative manager. He explained that all glass containers now contain some recycled glass which is tossed into the melting furnaces right along with the main ingredients of sand, soda and limestone.

Schweickert said the lower melting point of recycled glass allows the process to save fuel and create less emissions. During his ecological remarks, Schweickert said, "when you purchase a product you should be responsible for the disposal of the container."

The company's spokesmen also discussed how to encourage the public to collect their glass containers.

Barbara Thomas of the Livermore Recycling Committee also attended the workshop, which was followed by a tour of the Owens-Illinois plant

Need New Town in town, says Supervisor George

OAKLAND — North county supervisor John George stepped from his neutral corner yesterday to deliver a one-two whallop to Harlan Geldermann's proposed "New Town."

Quoting from a seven-page position paper, the previously uncommitted supervisor called "New Town" an "unavoidable part of the undesirable pattern of the flight to the suburbs and abandonment of the central cities."

"Large suburban projects drain off credit to the urban periphery," he said, "making it difficult for revitalization of central cities."

The report was prepared by his all-volunteer, 30-member land use and economic development committee in "intensive study" over the past three weeks, according to a committee member.

Planners, economists, community groups and graduate students work on the committee. They have studied other projects for the freshman supervisor, but this past month "concentrated on the Las Positas Valley," according to the committeeman.

Plans to racially and economically integrate the "New Town" are "plattitudes," George said, and "are not likely nor are they able to be imposed on builders."

"Population growth in (the county) is near stable. For what limited need exists for growth, there is more than enough land available for infilling in older, close-in communities."

Even Livermore's and Pleasanton's call for 2 percent growth rates "may not be in the best interests of (my) 5th District residents," said George.

Geldermann's plans would mean "a doubling in the number of commuters having to leave the valley to find employment... This commuting from the (valley) tends to deny jobs to the residents of the Central Metropolitan area," he said.

"The project would 'further degrade' the Valley's air quality and be energy expensive, while turning away 'prime agricultural land,' according to George.

"It is wasteful to society as a whole to construct the entire range of urban services in Las Positas when such facilities exist and go underutilized elsewhere."

"I'm saying we need a 'New Town' in town," he concluded.

paper. Supervisor Joseph Bort and board chairman Charles Santana are staying neutral.

Bort's interrogation to both sides of the issue was pointed.

Santana maintained procedural rules, trying to confine both fellow board members and the audience to the general plan considerations.

The board will hold another public hearing at 7 p.m., May 26, in the Granada High School auditorium.

Give your life a little Vespa.

Vespa Ciao. The 160 mpg shiftless wonder. Say "chow" (Italian for "hi"). As easy to ride as a bicycle, but a lot less work. Up to 160 miles of fun per gallon. Takes you anywhere in town with no parking problems once you're there.

Vespa Scooter. The other two-wheel experience. You ride inside, not straddling a hot engine. It's stable, easy-riding and trouble-free. No wonder it's the world's most popular scooter. Five models, from the 90 Sport to the 200 Rally that's legal on freeways.

Before taking the stand, he refused to take an oath on the Bible, saying he would back up his statements without putting any burden on God.

"Yes I was" a candidate for president in 1976, Collins testified as Evans began the government's case.

His campaign consisted almost entirely of mailing press releases to major wire services and local newspapers, giving only one speech before a Pleasanton service club.

During the 16-month run at the presidency, Collins collected $13 in donations and spent less than $400.

Collins faces possible suspension for one month or dismissal if the Civil Service Commission finds him guilty. A decision could be forthcoming in a month, Judge McCarthy stated.

SR schools honor unrecallable busing promise

SAN RAMON — School officials have agreed to honor a promise to bus 125 students to Monte Vista High School next year, even though the students live inside another school's boundaries.

The busing will cost $15,000. San Ramon Valley Unified School District trustees agreed to the action after meeting with parents who said they were told by a school official that busing would continue.

Supt. Allan Petersdorf said the mixup began in 1973 when board members authorized a change in high school boundaries. With the opening of the new California High School, some students who had been attending Monte Vista High School were to have been reassigned to San Ramon High School.

With the change was a stipulation that students entering Monte Vista in 1973 would be bused until they were graduated this year, so they could stay with their class. The busing was to have stopped this June because subsequent students in the area were to have been enrolled at San Ramon High.

But this did not happen. A number of parents who called the district office to find out what school their children should enter were told they should go to Monte Vista and that busing would be provided.

"We obeyed the rules, and did what we thought were we were supposed to do," said resident Susan Davis. "We heard rumors, but we didn't believe them."

Another resident said she felt "like a ping pong ball. Have you ever had all your kids going to different schools at one time? It makes PTA and after-school activities difficult, to say the least."

Petersdorf said, "We're trying to pin down exactly what has happened."

Parents who were told their high school students should go to Monte Vista also were asked to obtain intra-district transfers, but district officials could not find records of the transfers.

Petersdorf said the real problem is that the school district is growing rapidly, and there have been many boundary changes, which adds to the confusion.

"We're trying to bring order to the district," he said, pointing out that most persons concerned are new to the district, including the parents.

Parents who spoke at the board meeting earlier this week could not remember who at the district office had assured them there would be transportation to Monte Vista.

"We can't find anyone who will confess to telling parents there would be busing," Petersdorf said.

During a discussion of the commitment, new board member Don Sledge said, "The board has an obligation to back what parents are told. Confusion reigns, that's obvious."

Psychic reads auras, pegs personalities, in Amador students

PLEASANTON — Had your color auras read yet?

A few students in Amador High School sociology teacher Bob Holland's class had them read Wednesday by a psychic and seemed pleased with the experience.

Deborah Blair, director of the Parapsychology Education and Awareness Center in Los Altos was the latest in a long line of interesting speakers to parade in front of Holland's classes. She did more than talk.

She looked at the vibrations coming out of various students' bellies (the solar plexus, she called it) and told them what kind of personalities they have.

No one objected to the "diagnosis" and the lack of protest from students may have indicated the familiar ring of truth about the "color readings."

Blair said she doesn't see colors coming out of the solar plexus per se, but rather senses the vibrations we all have in our bodies, the kind set up by the electrical charges from intercellular action. She translates these vibrations into various colors and one predominant color shows your emotional center is at one part of the body, another color at another part.

For example, you red and orange vibrators out there have your emotional centers in your abdominal regions and you react physically to life. If you are in that bag, you would be happiest at doing physical work and creating things. A little higher up in the body and you give off a yellow aura, which shows a creative personality. Around the heart, the color is green, which is "emotional, humanitarian, relating directly to people in a job."

Light and dark blue are in the neck and head region. The light blue folks are very creative, inspirational and quick witted. The dark blue types are analytical.

Color is a two way street, said Blair. A doctor found that the yellow walls on his waiting room hit the patients right in the solar plexus, really frightening the children.

In the class, one young man turned out to have a light blue aura. "You'd make a good writer," she said. "I haven't picked up a pen in a month," he replied.

Another student was seen as a "predominantly mental" person and "more emotional than you should be". She didn't want to encourage him to be something he is not, she explained.

After class, a reporter asked for a reading. Here is an unedited account of that encounter.

"Dark blue. You are very analytical."

"But two years ago, a psychic told me my aura was green."

"Were you going through a lot of emotional turmoil then?"

"Sure, but I do every day."

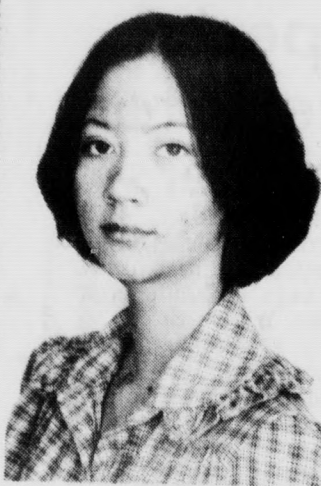

"Well, now it's dark blue."

"Are you sure it isn't the dark blue suit and tie?"

"Definitely dark blue. You are the type of person who feels an emotion only after first selecting which one it will be."

Two points.

Chabot class offers public employe tips in discipline

Chabot College in Hayward is offering a series of Saturday courses, "Skills for Public Administrators," which deal with increasing the understanding and skill level of public employes in disciplinary action corrective techniques from a positive approach.

Scheduled this Saturday is "Causes of Discipline," an examination of frequently occurring employee problems leading to the need for discipline. These include absenteeism, absence without leave, insubordination, misconduct, or poor job performance. The role of resignation in lieu of dismissal will be discussed.

The classes meet from 8 a.m. to 4:50 p.m. Those interested may register one time for classes in remaining in the series or select only those which are of specific interest. Eleanor Parker, director of classified personnel, Hayward Unified School District, is the instructor.

Livermore planners visit Davis with 'expert' guide

LIVERMORE — Planning Director Howard Nies played the part of unofficial tour director Tuesday when this city's planning commission took a study trip to Davis, where Nies was a planner for eight years.

It was the second trip by planners, in their effort to study other cities with similar problems as Livermore. The first was in March when planners visited Petaluma.

The group talked with Gloria McGregor, community development director for that city of 35,000 people, about growth policies.

"They estimate each year how many housing units they need, take applications in the fall and evaluate them on a set of criteria," according to Planning Commissioner Candy Simonen, who noted the criteria was heavily weighted toward getting a "good economic mix in the community."

After touring several subdivisions built under this plan, Simonen said, "I think they went a fair way toward achieving their goals."

Livermore's planners were fascinated by the energy conservation practices in Davis's home construction. Davis energy conservation ordinance requires a limit on the amount of unshaded glass for a private home.

"I thought the houses would look blank," said Simonen, "but it seemed to inspire some nice looking architecture."

Nies observed most lots were oriented in a north-south direction to take advantage of natural lighting and heating factors.

They brought back copies of the Davis energy ordinance for the Livermore energy committee to study. Simonen also said she was impressed during their tour of the downtown business district and the arrangement of parking lots behind and between buildings.

Nies, former Davis city planner, was responsible for much of the parking solutions in that town.

Looking at the vitality of the Davis community, Simonen said she realized Livermore is "way below our potential in retail outlets."

She expressed encouragement that "there can be commercial development in the railroad relocation area" of Livermore.

The Twin Valley Medical Assistants will have a board meeting Friday, May 13 at The Rancher, 875 Rincon, in Livermore at 12:30 p.m. All officers and interested persons are welcome.

St. Augustine

Castlewood Country Club in Pleasanton will be the site for the St. Augustine's Women's Club meeting Tuesday, May 17 at 10:30 a.m. A short business meeting will be followed by a champagne brunch and fashion show. For reservations to the $5 event call Norma Leone at 846-7782. All ladies are welcome.

Movie star mania

Olivia Newton John fans now have the opportunity to own something — but nobody knows what — that once belonged to the singer. And that goes for Johnny Cash, Charlton Heston and Ronald Reagan followers! Hundreds of celebrities were asked to donate something to Christiansen School's Saturday, May 21 carnival, with proceeds from the auction going towards the ongoing construction. The 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. carnival will also feature games, door prizes and refreshments. The school is located at 5757 Haggins Oaks Ave. in Livermore.

Rock 'n roll in the round

Pleasanton's Virginia Alexander may be a grandmother, but boy, can she dance! And hoofing with her at the "Class of '59 Graduates," currently on stage through Sunday, May 15 at Concord's Parkside Playhouse are her daughter, nephew, two grandchildren, and a niece.

Palsy help

Parents of Cerebral Palsy Children (PCPC) will host a free potluck dinner at Lake Elizabeth in Fremont Sunday, May 15 at 1 p.m.

The club will also hold a fund-raising Tupperware party at the home of Mrs. Silva in Pleasanton Tuesday, May 17. For more information on this event, contact 462-4180.

The group is interested in obtaining information on the number of children in the Pleasanton, Livermore and Dublin areas who require physical therapy. PCPC would like to determine the need for a physical therapy center in the area. If you have a child who needs physical therapy help, contact Mrs. Gitchell at 846-4914.

Sierra club

The Sierra Club Livermore-Amador Regional Group plans a 12-mile bicycle ride in the Livermore countryside, Sunday, May 29. The group will visit the Concannon Vineyard for lunch and the annual "Art in the Vineyard" display. Members must supply or buy their own meal, and meet at 10:30 a.m. in the parking lot at Hillcrest and East Avenues in Livermore to begin the trip.

ALVHS

Pearls! Cleo Seamans will present a lecture on that mystic gem Thursday, May 19 at Gertrude Arndt's home in Pleasanton at 1:30 p.m. Sponsored by the Amador-Livermore Valley Historical Society, the event is open to the public for a $4 donation. Checks may be sent to the A.L.V.H.S., P.O. Box 28, Livermore 94550. For details call 447-3964.

Fundamentals

Can Johnny spell? Add a column of figures? Fill out a simple job application form?

Educators from the local high school to Sacramento are concerned with that question, again. They're rewriting "our basic approach to education," again. We might all pray it works, this time.

From Carnegie to Sputnik, America's public education system has been undergoing one "bold change" after another. In just one generation, families were made to grasp bold ventures in "sight reading," in "new math" and in a great deal of computerized nonsense that flattered the brilliant child, but left the less-than-brilliant floundering in the back rows of remorse.

The classroom itself was changed. Walls came down, desks were removed. In some instances overstuffed lounges replaced the old stiff-back chair. Even if the kids weren't learning, they were comfortable.

It got so far out that a number of parents saw a need to "return to fundamentals." Regrettably, even that movement became so enmeshed in political and religious motivations that school districts, and communities, were faced with academic schisms that had little to do with learning.

But — perhaps because of that Fundamentalist surge California is now taking a long, hard look at "the minimal standard of proficiency for graduation from high school." It is a look that is overdue.

Now we must hope the politicians don't swing us too far in the other direction! Public schools, by their nature, must meet the basic need of every child, true; but school must also be an exciting, challenging experience for the youngster who has the capacity to look beyond.

Only when public education can satisfy both those needs — if indeed it can ever do both — will a majority of parents find happiness with the local school system.

Unda' COVA

Let's see now ... Livermore opted to quit first, then Pleasanton — just this once — agreed with Livermore; but then Livermore city council had second thoughts about COVA, leaving Pleasanton as the only bad guy in this drama.

Meanwhile, Valley Community Services District, which is often at odds with its two municipal counterparts, finds COVA as good an arena as any for flexing its muscle.

The "Congress of Valley Agencies" is no less ambitious, and no more promising, than the old "Valley Planning Committee." Neither panel had any real power; both became debating societies.

The people grow tired of politicians sitting round "arguing about our problems." Or cooking up new ones. We are stifled by staff reports, buried in our own bureaucracy.

What this these several communities need is leadership that looks beyond any one community, one taxing district, one politician's pride. Give us representatives who can see this expanse for what it is, and what it might be. From Sunol to San Ramon we are one.

But it is Sunol with its expanse of virgin land and San Ramon Valley with its upwind promise of growth which have never been part of COVA ... or any other Valley Forum. There are upwards of 600 square miles of land in this troubled basin; the cities of Livermore and Pleasanton and the VCSO have limited authority over less than one-tenth of that area.

We challenge our public officials to forget their petty provincialism. We urge them to reach out for ideas and answers that look to all the land, for all the people, for as many years as we dare anticipate. Give us a forum to which supervisors and legislators and congressmen might be invited; bring in experts to tell their story once, so that all might understand the same ground rules.

You don't need COVA. You do need a little courage, and a great deal of common sense.

Housing ballot

A reader from Dublin challenges the right of "residents of Pleasanton ... trying to tell Dublinites how to live their lives." The issue is Measure C to be voted on in May, the "Komandorski Village low-income housing" proposal.

A word of explanation might be helpful. Komandorski Village was built on the fringe of Camp Parks as World War II housing for military families. Control was later passed to Alameda County which then asked Pleasanton Housing Authority to operate and maintain Komandorski, along with Kottlinger Village which the PHA operated within the city limits.

A few years ago, the federal government provided funds to replace Kottlinger; now the same offer is made to fund 150 housing units that would be built on the Komandorski site. In making that offer, the government also requires some input from "the local community" as to the need and the desirability of such housing.

The county board of supervisors then determined that "the local community" insofar as Komandorski is concerned embraces not just Pleasanton — which has operated that facility for 30 years — but also Dublin, which is adjacent to the Komandorski site. Measure C will thus be submitted to voters in both Dublin and in Pleasanton.

The question requires thoughtful review by taxpayers who must look to the need for that housing, and the desirability of having all 150 units assembled onto one site.

But there can be no question of the right of every citizen of Dublin and of Pleasanton to vote on that project. The alternative would be a state or federal decision to build without regard for local sentiment. No one wants that.

FOCUS/Hello, media

VPAC's 'Carnival'

There's a carnival coming to town next month and we want to tell you something about it!

This "Carnival" happens to be the premiere offering of the spanking new Valley Performing Arts Company.

Our enthusiasm for this production and its parent company is a selfish one — we're a very small part of that ambitious company.

This carnival may be the first one that the media has shown little interest in.

Put two people on a stage debating anything from sewers to school teacher contracts and the media comes running.

VPAC is alive and living here in the Valley ... and, boy, do we have a rouser of a show for all!

Gentlemen and ladies of the media (you, too, Oakland, Walnut Creek, Hayward and San Jose), have you seen those classy pink advertising signs, or the press releases sent your way?

It's happening right here in the Valley ... excellent, family-style theatrical entertainment. And we're going to grow, have many more and varied types of shows ... and some day there'll be lines waiting to buy tickets to a VPAC prtion!

So help me, there will be.

Because the residents of this Valley like good theater, whether it be a brilliant musical offering like "Carnival," a drama, ballet or symphonic music.

More and more people are learning about VPAC and "Carnival" every day, but it takes a veritable "blitz" by the media to insure that all the theater buffs in the Valley learn the what, why, where and when of it.

An enterprise can talk up its product, send out releases and encourage support, but let's face it, if the prospective audience or members of the media are not interested, the enterprise has two strikes on it.

Tickets for VPAC's initial production of "Carnival" are now on sale and you can reserve yours or a block for your organization by calling 829-0685 or 462-3673.

Play dates are June 3, 4, 10, 11, 17, and 18.

The production is now in rehearsal at Dublin High and the show will be at the Dublin High Little Theatre. Curtain each night is 8:30.

Dan Diez at the Pleasanton Recreation Department tells us he's getting the VIP-senior citizens organized for the June 10 performance.

We'd like to encourage some of the other groups in the Valley — the women's clubs, the Jaycees, Lions, Rotarians, church and school groups to select a night and come in a group. We promise you, the show is worth it.

Letters to the Times

Divisive project

Editor, The Times:

Isn't this pipeline going too far? Why aren't the people allowed to have any say about how their tax dollars are spent? I cannot comprehend any elected official going against the voice of the majority of the people ... We should remember we did not elect any of our officials to serve LAVWMA which is trying to suppress, or overpower the voice of the people. LAVWMA is listening to power-hungry manipulators ...

In behalf of the majority of the registered voters, who defeated the pipeline issue at the polls, I ask, aren't we being discriminated against by ... a few of our elected officials in the valley and in Sacramento? We are being Rushed; we are being intimidated; we are being Threatened!

With such actions as these, and by not giving the voice of the people due consideration, soon there will be no people appearing at the polls to vote in the future. ... United we stand and if we don't unite on this issue, and let these scare tactics divide our communities, divided we'll fall.

May I ask the Zone 7 directors this, Do you Really feel that you are representing those who voted for you if you allow yourselves to be convinced by LAVWMA? Wouldn't it be better for you to take care of our unsolved water problems, unless it involves an issue for the electorate who pay the bill?

How did LAVWMA obtain the power to bypass the voice of the people? ... we are not dominated by complete dictatorship but remember, we are plagued with an enormous number of government agencies and their rapid growth continues to put great pressure on the taxpayers. It is time that we ... say No to their suggestion for wasteful spending of our tax dollars. To build this expensive pipeline over the will of the people will verify that elections are a farce ... I urge Zone 7 to assume a leadership position on this issue ...

Who's cracked?

Editor, The Times:

In the Times of 5-6-77 we read about Recall Crackpots, over the name of Chuck Mahler, in which it appears that anyone who questions an elected official or threatens to recall him is like a child throwing a tantrum. He says further that when our public officials act responsibly they are attacked by Crackpots. I'm sure our public officials are pleased to know that they have the approval of our own Archie Bunker.

His letter leaves the impression that our elected officials act responsibly on occasion. Does this imply that most of the time they do not? The pipeline is one issue with which our Archie agrees so it must follow that the majority of Tri-Valley voters who opposed the pipeline bond issue in November, must be crackpots. So it must be that thanks to the crackpots, we still have people who dare to be crackpots in their insistence that government must be responsive to the people. Interesting?

By this time the people are pretty "hep" to the idea that the solution to our sewage problem is not as simple as pumping it over the hill into the bay. It is big enough in fact to justify the involvement of appropriate agencies of both state and federal governments with grant funds to match. It is unworthy of our elected officials to protest that appropriate technology is not available to solve problem. The point is that even if adequate technology were not available to solve problem. The point is that even if adequate technology were not available it would not justify spending public funds on a "Boondoggle" that would set back a proper solution just that much further from reality, Archie Bunker to the contrary notwithstanding.

Against recall

Editor, The Times:

In answer to Thurmon Caudill...

1. The pipeline is the only solution to the problem at hand. 2. The pipeline will cost the local taxpayers millions of dollars less than any proposal so far.

3. The recall group should direct their energies at the government agencies who have set such high water standards.

4. It is not technically practical to put reclaimed waste water back into the ground without violating these standards.

5. Elected officials acted responsibly because they were not intimidated by a vocal minority.

6. The majority of the voters did not even go to the polls.

7. I did not call the citizens who voted against the pipeline "crackpots."

8. Mr. Caudill has deviously tried to link those who voted against the pipeline as favoring recall of our elected officials.

Dublin's issue?

Editor, The Times:

After receiving my special election notice today with the arguments pro & con on Measure C, I wonder why people who do not live in Dublin and cannot vote on the issue are trying to tell the voters of Dublin how to cast their votes. Five of the six signers of the argument against Measure C are listed in the phone book as residents of Pleasanton or Livermore. One has no listing in the phone book. Where does he live, in Timbuctoo, and trying to tell Dublinites how to live their lives? Whose ax are all of you grinding? Please take care of your own towns, and let us take care of ours.

John Rutter
"Definitely Dublin"

round the town

The very first automobile to enter my life was the Grey Dort. In truth it was more like a small truck. Made over from something or other.

Most vehicles remembered from my youth were made over from something or other. Rarely was there opportunity to ride in a car that looked then as the manufacturer first intended; I swear Mr. Studebaker or Mr. Packard would have been shocked at some of the latter-day aberrations which resulted from their finely crafted carriages.

My older brother acquired the Grey Dort. "Purchased" is not the proper reference since few young people "purchased" anything so big as a car in those days. Louis no doubt swapped a couple of his bikes, pledged a few day's of labor to the seller, and added maybe $10 in cold cash to gain this magnificent machine.

Magnificent at least in the eyes of a younger brother who had never in his life known an automobile that belonged, wheels and all, to our very own family. It was in fact the wheels which gave us most concern.

"Wheels will fall off the darned fool thing before you get to the top of the hill," my father would announce, loudly. Father did not own a car. Never drove one, to my knowledge. He liked to walk; or, when the winter was fierce, ride the trolley system.

Louis took all these verbal slams in stride. He loved his Grey Dort with a passion. He loved it even when we could not get the blessed thing to motivate.

He loved it even when the wheels fell off. Which they did. At the crest of College Hill, of all places. When the bed of the Grey Dort was loaded with kids and .22's and rabbits. Returning from a successful hunting trip. Perhaps too successful.

The Grey Dort's wheels could not sustain the load. We all went hither and yon. Nobody seriously damaged.

Not even the Grey Dort. Which Louis turned in on a 12-cylinder Willys Knight. The very biggest sedan known to mankind! Or at least, Moose Jaw mankind.

"The darned thing will blow up and kill all of you!" Father proclaimed, knowingly. Fortunately, he was wrong this time.

The Willys Knight did not blow up. It did not in fact do anything at all. Just stood there. Looking very massive. Very immobile.

We cleaned it and all twelve of its cylinders. We polished it. We even pushed it a little this way and that. Very little. Not by muscle alone does a seven-passenger Willys Knight Sedan move from here to there.

When we finally parted with "the Willys" — as it was lovingly known — there was time for a tear or two. It was a lovely brute, for all that. It was also the last car our family would ever own.

Not until after World War II, when I acquired a four-door Hupmobile of my very own, was there to be another love affair with the car. It is a love that has diminished with each purchase over the years.

But not so for the nation.

"America's love affair with the automobile endures as never before." The Bureau of Labor Statistics made that determination following a long and costly study of our relationship with horseless carriages.

The percentage of our income which we relegate to the purchase and maintenance of our own transportation has grown steadily over the years. Grown more even than our allotment for food and housing.

"By 1973, families spent more on the average for transportation than they did to eat."!! The Bureau of Labor Statistics does not lie.

(I hasten to add that this is not the same Bureau which gave us that marvelous study on the $64,000 child; nor was this bureaucracy responsible for that invaluable report on "What makes tennis players angry," or the very timely census on "How many horses in America." These bureaus are, however, all close cousins.)

The Bureau of Labor Statistics says we are a hell-bent-for-wheels society despite inflation; despite even the Arabs. 21 percent of the household budget is now allocated to the family car, motorcycle, whatever. This outlay has shoved food purchases down to 20.1 percent.

We spend three times the cash on cars that we lay out for health care. Which is hard to do, given the price of a day's lodging in the hospital. $125, and climbing, Sam says.

"The average American is today spending far more for health care, transportation, food and housing than he makes." That's one study the Bureau of Bankruptcy hasn't released yet. It's next, right after the report on angry tennis players and that horse census.

Candidates

If ever there was a proposition which should only be decided by a vote of the people it is the proposal by Assemblyman Vic Fazio which would saddle taxpayers with electioneering costs of aspirants to public office.

While the bill, AB 1372, in its present form would burden the voters with only the campaign costs of those seeking statewide and legislative offices, such a scheme once started would quickly filter down to all elective offices including the dogcatcher.

This notion of purifying elections has already commenced in connection with Presidential elections. Congressmen are now endeavoring to extend it to include themselves. Fazio merely brings it along to the state level.

Fazio, in peacock fashion, brags that his bill is sponsored by Common Cause and the League of Women Voters. Common Cause is a "do-gooder" organization, which despite its claims of broad membership, is dominated by a small group dedicated to the peculiar ideas of one John Gardner. It has spent millions lobbying to weaken the ability of others to lobby.

The League of Women Voters is composed of well meaning dowagers who, although sincere in purpose, seldom do their own thinking and consequently are occasionally manipulated into support positions on issues.

The idea of full disclosure of campaign contributions and the personal financial interests of consequence of the candidates is sound. And, as Fazio states, we have it. The idea of taxing citizens to finance the political ambitions of every Tom, Dick and Harry is a bummer.

Fazio's contention that limiting individual contributions and substituting public funding for private donations will make candidates debt free of "special interest" is sophomoric. It would merely subject the candidates to the pressures of highly organized special interests, such as labor and teacher organizations, which can field hordes of volunteer campaign workers. That would leave the candidates unable or unwilling to get that kind of support without the ability to compete because their funds are shut off.

Fazio has a cute little provision in his bill which would effectively blank out all but the affluent candidates from presenting their qualifications to the voters via the official ballot pamphlet. It would assess each candidate from $4 to $10 per 1000 registered voters for inclusion of such statement.

Also his limitation on the amount of personal funds which any candidate could spend in his own behalf would seem to be in conflict with the Constitution. Only recently the U.S. Supreme Court ruled on this point in connection with initiative campaigns.

Viewing the proposal for public financing of campaigns from a distance an appropriate question would seem to be why the need after 200 years of experience otherwise. And what price must the public pay for honesty in government?

In the final analysis the issue seems to be simply whether it is a legitimate function of government to tax citizens to further the political ambitions of persons who are personally reprehensible to them? This is an issue of so great moment that it hardly seems proper for those in office, who will reap the benefit of the passage of such a program, to decide. If Fazio sincerely believes public funding of campaigns is the desire of the majority the fair way to determine that is to put the issue on the ballot.

Dr. Joyce Brothers

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I wish I could do something to make my husband less embarrassed when he wants to be cuddled. This need seems to pain him and because of his guilt about it, he usually drinks too much before he comes to me to be held and loved. How can I make him know that I don't think he's weak or crazy just because he wants to be hugged? I've never given him any reason to believe I disapprove of this in a man but I think his mother and his former wife did. — A.G.

DEAR A.G.: Talk freely to him about how you feel and let him know that, far from being upset by a display of tenderness, you welcome it. You're fortunate to have a man who can still feel and accept this need, even though he may do it reluctantly. Americans, especially men, are often brought up to feel that there's something sissy about displaying any dependency needs. Actually, we are all interdependent and the sooner we admit this, the more quickly we can jump over one of the hurdles leading to maturity.

Both men and women cherish a desire to be cuddled. It helps reduce anxiety, promotes a feeling of relaxation and provides a sense of security. The person who allows himself to have infantile moments of loving will have inner strength and a sense of security.

Let your husband know that he's not alone in his needs but the fact that he's courageous enough to admit and accept these desires may set him apart from many more uptight men.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I'm a mother of five children and I'm dead set against the Equal Rights Amendment and all that it means. Two of my grown daughters are very involved trying to get support for it in their areas. It might help if you could explain why it's important for women to behave like females and by this, I mean, staying at home with their children. I'm concerned about the future generation and I want my daughters to be good mothers. This means being feminine with a capital "F" in the old-fashioned sense. After all, it was good enough for me, my mother and grandmother, why not for my daughters? — L.Y.

DEAR L.Y.: I don't think I can give you the arguments you're looking for.

I think you perhaps have a misunderstanding of what constitutes "femininity." The Equal Rights Amendment in no way alters any definition of feminine or masculine. I suspect from your letter that you favor very rigid sexual roles and that you would consider nurturing, passivity and compassion to be distinctly feminine traits.

I believe that men can be compassionate and passive without losing their masculinity, and that a woman can be assertive without in any way losing her femininity. I can think of no character traits that belong exclusively to one sex or the other. To me, this is an individual matter.

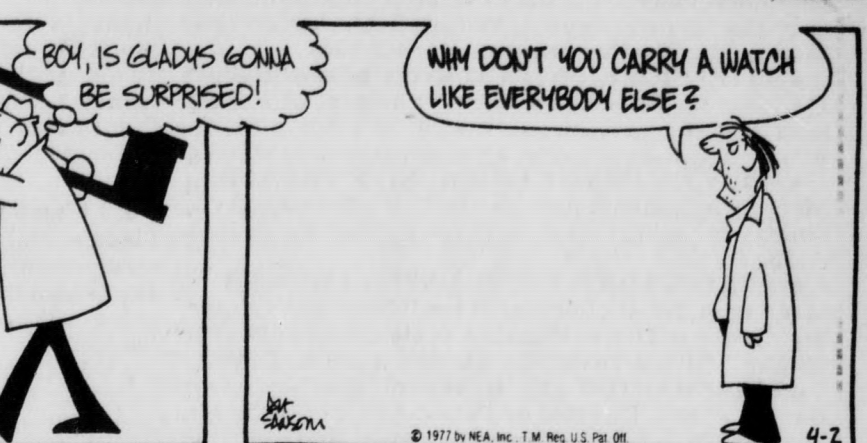

You might be interested in knowing, however, that recent research suggests that women who scored high on the sexual stereotype of the ultra feminine role scored badly when it came to nurturing. This experiment would indicate that the more androgynous men and women would make better, more understanding parents.

Incidentally, many "good mothers" work and many "bad mothers" stay home. It is the quality of time spent with a child that is important — not just the quantity of time.

THE BORN LOSER

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — Would you please comment on the enclosed article, "12-year Study Links Estrogen, Breast Cancer?"

Sometime ago you commented on a similar article in reference to cancer of the uterus. You said if a woman had had a hysterectomy it was all right to take estrogen. Does this hold true for breast cancer or is there a danger of breast cancer if one takes estrogen daily?

I have had a benign breast tumor removed a few years ago and I note that the article says that breast cancer is seven times more likely if you have had a benign breast tumor.

DEAR READER — The breast cancer scare is really an oddity. The authors of the scientific article that appeared have apparently agreed to disagree about the meaning of the study. A scientist from the National Cancer Institute studied the patients of a top-notch gynecologist. The NCI scientist opened the door to the possibility that female hormones might increase the chances of developing breast cancer — in post-menopausal women.

Dr. Laman Gray, Sr., the gynecologist, disagreed. He pointed out some weaknesses in the study. Basically the results showed that post-menopausal women on estrogen were 1.3 times more likely to have breast cancer than women who did not take estrogen.

Dr. Gray pointed out that the figures were misleading because the incidence of cancer of the breast in women was compared to the rate seen in Southern clinical centers where the incidence of breast cancer is lower than in Dr. Gray's region.

Let it suffice to say that the meaning of the results are sufficiently in doubt that you really can't use the study to answer the question of the role of female hormones in breast cancer. There is an important point, though. The study does support the idea that if there is an increased risk for post-menopausal women on estrogen the risk must be quite small.

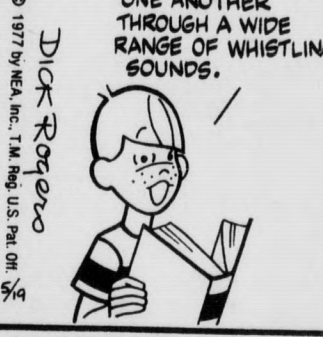

Both doctors agreed that women with "lumpy breasts" were more likely to have problems if they took estrogen. This was particularly true if a woman developed breast disease after starting female hormones. So your breast lump will need to be considered by your doctor in deciding if you should take estrogen or not. Estrogen does speed up the growth of cancer of the breast so breast cancer patients should not be taking estrogen.

Daily estrogen in small doses as you are taking is less likely to be implicated as a factor than less frequent larger doses.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER

Q. "DO DOLPHINS TALK TO ONE ANOTHER?"

A. YES. DOLPHINS COMMUNICATE WITH ONE ANOTHER THROUGH A WIDE RANGE OF WHISTLING SOUNDS.

Dolphins are porpoise-like animals that live mainly in the ocean. Scientists have found that these intelligent creatures really do "speak" to one another.

But dolphin "words" are merely signal sounds, not real language. And because a dolphin doesn't have vocal cords like man's, its voice consists of whistling sounds, rather than words.

Each whistle signal has a particular meaning to a dolphin.

A dolphin in trouble, for example, may send out a call for help by making an up-and-down whistling sound. It may be saying "Help me!" or "I'm hurt!"

All other dolphins that hear the distress call will come to its aid.

By using many different whistle words, the dolphins can call to one another, warn of danger, and send many other messages important to dolphins.

Scientists are trying to learn more about the dolphin's language. Maybe someday we will find out what the whistles mean.

When this hand appeared in the final round of the life master pairs some 10 years ago, there were quite a few seven-spade contracts arrived at on any number of bidding sequences. Invariably, West selected the 10 of diamonds as the best lead out of several unattractive choices. Most declarers led a low spade from dummy at trick two. They could count 13 easy tricks unless trumps broke 4-0 and this play allowed finesses either way later. The really good players went one step further. They made an extra safety play by cashing dummy's king of hearts at trick two. They also made their grand slams. When East showed out of trumps at trick three, they would lead the nine of trumps. West would play low and the nine would hold the trick. Then they would ruff their low heart, cash dummy's ace of trumps, come to their hands with the ace of clubs, pick up West's last trump and write down the score. Those players who forgot to cash the king of hearts (there was the very slight risk of an 8-0 heart break) just could not handle the combination of the 6-1 diamond break with the 4-0 trump break. They could ruff their heart, but they never could get back to their hand to pull the jack of trumps.

The exquisite gardens of the Holy Family Motherhouse at Mission San Jose will be the setting for a wine-tasting and house tour Sunday, May 15 from 2 to 4 p.m. Mrs. Teresa Scotto of Villa Armando Winery in Pleasanton will be the hostess for the event which will raise funds to help train young sisters who serve the religious education programs in eight nearby Catholic parishes. Holy Family Sister Angela, principal of the school of religion at St. Raymond's Church in Dublin, discusses plans with ticket chairman Reina Whitney who may be reached at 828-4156. Tickets at $2.50 per person are also available through General Chairman Sue Patskowski at 462-1499 or Mary Hart at 846-3318. To reach the Motherhouse, take I-680 south to the Mission Boulevard-Hayward exit, then east to the entrance opposite Mission San Jose.

The Archers, Chuck Girard

The Archers, who have acquired a large following of those in tune to the sounds of soul, pop, and rock gospel rock, will be in concert on Saturday, May 21 at the Alameda County Fairgrounds Amphitheatre in Pleasanton at 8:00 p.m. Joining the Archers on the program will be the former lead singer of Love Song, Chuck Girard. Girard is one of the pioneers in the ever-expanding field of Christian rock music. With four vocalists, two guitars, keyboard and drums, the Archers have completed their sixth national tour which included concerts at Madison Square Garden, McCormick Palace, the Los Angeles Coliseum and nine major music festivals. The Archers come into the Bay Area after having toured South Africa last year. Tickets for the concert, $2.50 advance and $3 at the door, are available at 11 outlets throughout the Bay Area. The concert is being promoted by Trinity Baptist Church of Livermore.

Jewish Shavuot

SAN FRANCISCO — May 22 marks the Jewish celebration of Shavuot (Shah-vo-o-te) ... the 3000th anniversary of the giving of the ten commandments.

According to Jewish custom, on Shavuot night one stays awake and studies from midnight to dawn. Also, Jewish young people celebrate their confirmation.

Special foods are served that are rich and tasty. Dairy foods are traditional. Noodle and cheese puddings, cheesecakes and blintzes, crepes filled with cheese or fruit and served with sour cream, are some favorites. Honey is traditionally served, it's sweetness compared to the sweetness of learning of Jewish ethical and religious law.

Asbury Methodist

LIVERMORE — "You Can Be Set Free" is the title of the new adult course in Christian education to begin this Sunday, May 15, at 11:15 a.m. at Asbury United Methodist Church under the leadership of Jim Culpepper. This new course is in addition to the continuing course on Family Life being taught by the Rev. Frank H. Stone, Jr.

Both adult courses are scheduled following the Sunday worship at 9:30 and 11 a.m.

On Sports

A few die-hard Oakland A's fans may have gotten excited when their team broke from the gate fast at the start of the season but it now appears these people cannot expect more than a mediocre season from their favorite team.

Charley Finley

The A's are simply lacking in experienced, talented personnel.

Oakland owner Charles Finley has traded away or let go the majority of his players who captured three straight World Series and five division championships.

Players like Catfish Hunter, Reggie Jackson and Rollie Fingers were the backbone of those great A's clubs. Pitcher Vida Blue is the only player remaining from the first division championship team in 1971 and Finley tried to give him away, too.

Quality players like the above mentioned cannot be replaced easily.

Finley has tried but is not working out. He traded Mike Torrez, his second best pitcher to the Yankees for Doc Ellis, a talented but erratic and moody hurler.

It's generally better to go with a consistent if not super-talented pitcher than one that has bundles of talent but a questionable attitude.

A good example of this can be seen with the San Francisco Giants.

John "The Count" Montefusco is generally regarded as the Giants' best pitcher but Jim Barr is a more reliable, consistent player who can usually get the job done. "The Count" may have more talent and a blazing fast ball but Barr doesn't get "bombed out" as much.

Finley's biggest problem in building his team into a unit could be getting his stars like Richie Allen and Ellis to develop with the team.

Besides Blue the A's have no reliable, first-line pitcher (with the possible exception of Ellis) and pitching is still the name of the game.

Of course, some people will say that baseball is a business and that Finley will lose less money because he won't have to pay those high salaries anymore.

Still, part of having a successful business is getting the job done and in baseball that means getting the good ball players, sometimes even if it means forking over a higher salary than the owner might think the player is worth.

With quality ball players a team should win and that will bring in the fans (even in the Bay Area). More fans means more money so the owner can't lose.

However, it appears Charlie is losing and the prospects of things getting better before they get worse extremely dim.

Without the talented players he once had, Charles Finley is due for a long season.

And the A's fans will long for the days when Jackson, Hunter, Joe Rudi, Sal Bando and the rest of the World Championship line-up suited up in their white shoes.

Laker coach says LA is better

PORTLAND — Coach Jerry West says his Los Angeles Lakers have outplayed the Portland Trail Blazers the last two games, and still have lost.

"Physically we may be played to our maximum abilities more than they played to their maximum," West said. "But that doesn't always win ball games."

West ran his team through a light workout Thursday in preparation for Friday night's fourth game of the best-of-seven National Basketball Association semifinal series. The Blazers lead the series 3-0 and could sweep the series with a victory.

"I'm discouraged to be in the position we're in," West said, "but I'd be even more discouraged if we hadn't played up to our capabilities."

The difference, West said, has been "the little things."

"Loose balls, which we haven't gotten our share of, quickness and turnovers," West said. "These are the little things that have gotten us into trouble."

While West was sending his team through what might be its final practice session of the season, Portland coach Jack Ramsay was grumbling about his team's poor workout on the other side of town.

"It was the poorest practice we've had in the playoffs," Ramsay said. "We were acting like we already had them beat."

That is not the kind of attitude, Ramsay noted, that had propelled the Blazers to the threshold of the NBA finals.

"We've played a good team game," he said. "We've acquired poise and confidence. We've played a very determined game."

Reserve guard Herm Gilliam, the oldest Blazer with seven NBA seasons under his belt, attributed the poor Portland workout to "a lack of concentration," especially on the part of the starters.

"We did the same thing the day before we lost in Denver," Gilliam said, "but that's no indication of how we'll play tomorrow night."

Gilliam, who played with his share of also-rans in the NBA, is reveling in the Blazers' newfound success.

"There's nothing like being on a winner," he said. "I've been on some losers. I've seen the other side."

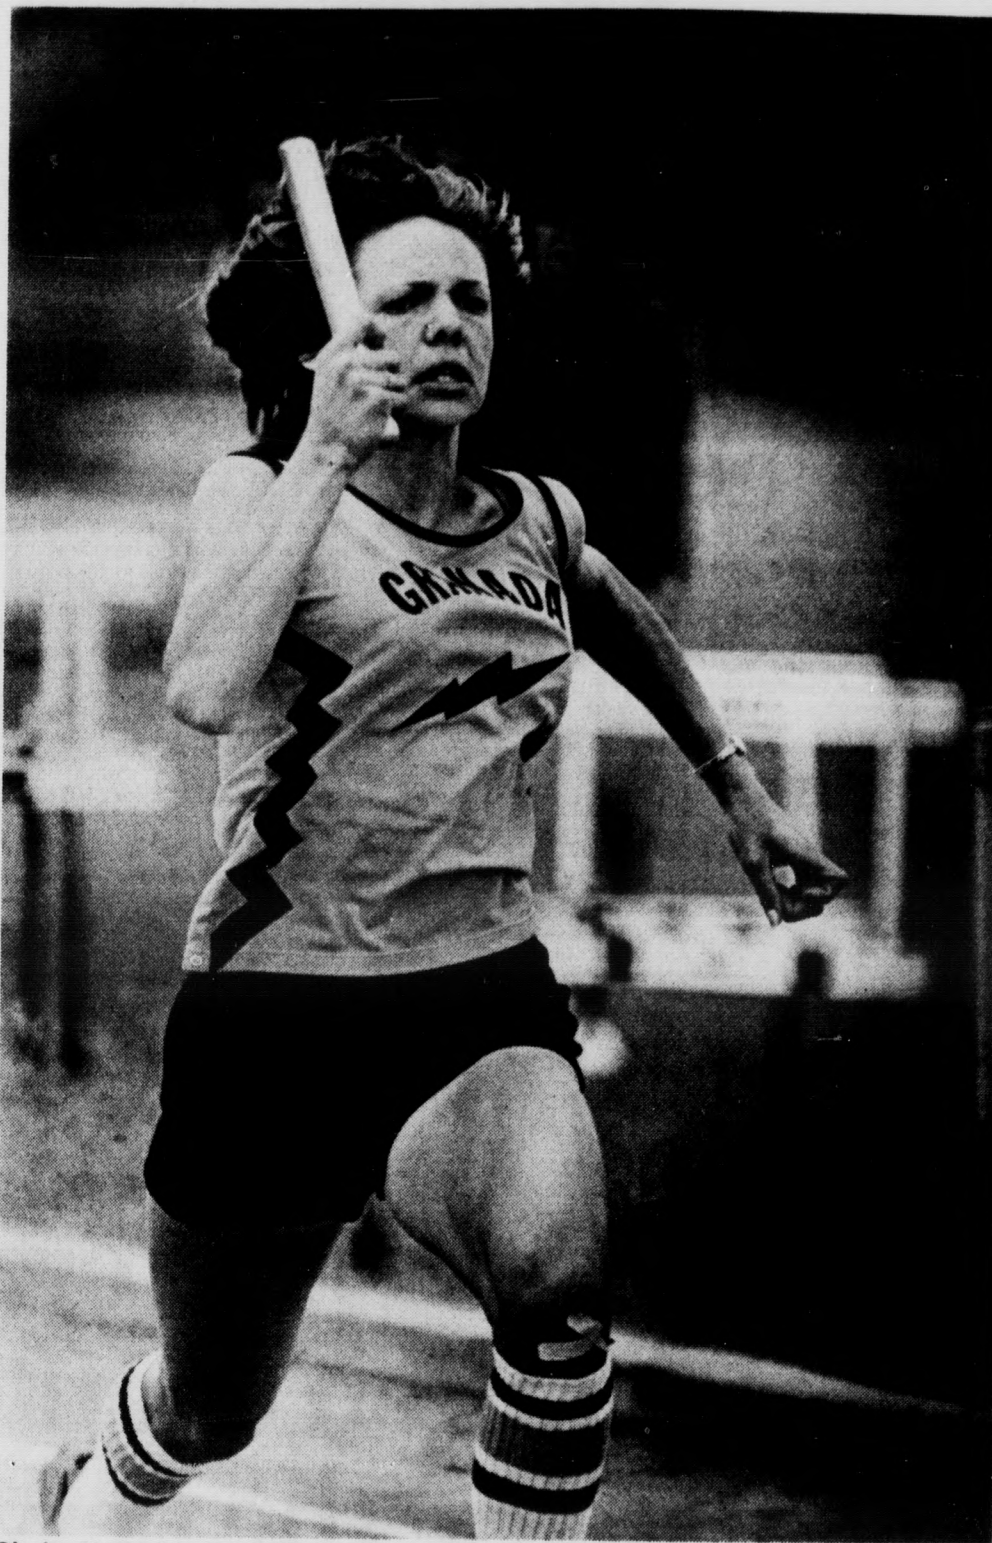

He compared the Blazers with the old Boston Celtics.

"Every year the loose ball just bounced their way," Gilliam said. "Now it's bouncing our way."

The series spotlight has been on the matchup in the middle, between the Lakers' Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Portland's Bill Walton.

EBAL golf MV captures title

MARTINEZ — Monte Vista High School freshman Scott Watkins shot the only par round of the day to win the East Bay Athletic League golf championship and lead the Mustangs to the team title at Franklin Canyon Golf Course here yesterday.

Watkins birdied the first and third holes and bogeyed just two holes to edge defending champ Greg Allio of San Ramon by a stroke.

Allio, who finished with a 73, birdied the 345-yard third hole and the par-5 third link to lead by a stroke at the turn, but had a 38 on the back nine to finish second.

While the Mustangs won the team crown and the right to move on to the North Coast Section championships Monday at Peacock Gap in San Rafael by 14 shots, they trailed after the front nine.

Watkins, consistent all the way, had a 36 and Dave Najarian a 38, but the other four Monte Vista golfers were over 40 on the way out, allowing Livermore to take a one stroke lead, 196-197, after nine. David Sisti, Jeff Howard and Mark Voelker all had 39's to lead the Cowboys to their brief advantage.

Allio and Dublin's Rusty Allan, who scored a 78, both advanced to the NCS tour-

Monte Vista's Mustangs got as close to the top spot in the East Bay Athletic League as they could with a 4-3 win over Foothill and now the George Cockerton's squad must sit and wait and hope and what.

The Mustangs find themselves one-half game behind the first place San Ramon Wolves with all their games played and the Wolves having two more, Dublin and California.

Mike Cockerton was the power behind the victory for Monte Vista providing a homerun and a single in three at bats along with three runs batted in.

Cockerton homered in the first with one one for the first two Mustang runs. In the third Bill Howar singled stole second and scored on a single by Tony Adams. In the fifth Cockerton singled home two runs.

Steve Jayko was the starter for the Mustangs went the first two innings yielding to Craig Robinson in the third. Robinson got the win and gave up five hits in five innings.

Scott Wainwright had two of the Foothill hits, both singles. The second one driving home one of Foothill's three second-inning runs.

Foothill is now 2-12 and Monte Vista 11-3.

Bob Churchill leaped into the upper reaches of California's high school high jumpers when he cleared 6-10 at the East Bay Athletic League track finals yesterday at Dublin High School.

The 6-4 Livermore High junior cleared 6-10 on his third attempt. He barely missed at 7-0 on his second try, brushing the bar off on his second try.

Can he go seven feet this year?

"I don't know," he said frankly looking up at the bar.

However, the talented junior seem capable of making that height. His clearance yesterday is the second highest in the East Bay Area and the second best in the North Coast Section.

He made 6-7 on his first attempt by several inches. Granada's Steve Littlepage finished second with a 6-2½ leap.

Churchill's leap was not a record as Mark Wilson of Monte Vista cleared 6-11 in 1974. Wilson went on to finish second at the state meet.

Dublin's Chuck Gangnuss had his hand in three records, however.

Chuck started the day off right for Dublin in the non-scoring affair, running the first leg of the Gael's 440-yard relay team which set a new league mark of 43.4, still off their seasonal best of 43.1. Other members of the team included Mark O'Hara, Jim Boulware and Jon Batchelor.

Gangnuss then came back to blast his own high hurdles record of 14.6 out of the book with an outstanding 14.2.

"I started poorly," he admitted. "But I felt a lot of speed between the hurdles once I got going."

Jim Beigel of Amador Valley, a junior, finished second in 14.9, a school record.

Gangnuss then tied his own 330-yard low hurdles mark of 37.9 set last season. He caught teammate Boulware off the turn and hold on for the win. Boulware ran a seasonal best of 38.1.

A lot of Dublin athletes had a good day. Jumper Jeff Barnes captured the triple jump with a 45-½ leap and finished third in both the long jump and high jump. He did 20-6½ in the long jump and cleared 5-10½ in the high jump.

California's Craig Cline was a surprise winner in the long jump, leaping 21-6½ for the top medal.

"I was hoping for 22 feet today," Cline said.

However, since I didn't get it this week I plan on doing it next week. I want to go to state and I have to jump that far to do so."

Cline also finished sixth in the hot triple jump action with a 43-2 leap. Phil Wiltz, who was favored in the triple jump, took second with a 44-2½ leap. He also finished second in the long jump.

Other top competitors on the varsity level were Amador's Chris Huntze and Brian McSharry of Granada.

Huntze won the 440 in 51.1 and ran a brilliant 49.5 on have to drop one of the three events.

"With her injury I think she might drop the 880," Byers said. "Right now the two-mile is probably her best event because she has a lot of endurance."

Honour took the long jump with a record leap of 17-11¼, was second in the 100-yard dash in 11.7 and second in the 110-yard low hurdles (a new event) in 15.2.

Angela Carlos, just a freshman, won the low hurdles in an outstanding 15.0.

"Last time I race against her (Honour) I hit my leg on a hurdle," Carlos said. "This time I just concentrated on clearing them all."

Julie Stevens and Patty Hannon of Granada each broke the high jump mark with 5-2 leaps. Julie won on fewer misses.

In frosh-soph action Rich Dunn of California set a new record in the 220 with a 23.1 clocking. He also finished second behind Dave Ridgwell of Granada in the 100 as both runners ran 10.5s.

Fritz Venker of San Ramon tied Boulware in the 100-yard dash on the var-

Note to new cooks: mixing bowls often come in sets of three. You may find it easier to mix in bowls with slanting sides than in bowls with straight sides, so take this into consideration when you are equipping your kitchen.

Philly power topples SF

PHILADELPHIA — Backed by the hitting of Greg Luzinski and Mike Schmidt, Larry Christenson pitched a three-hitter and beat the San Francisco Giants 3-0 Thursday night.

Christenson evened his record at 3-3 in outpitching Giants ace John Montefusco. The loss was the fourth straight for Montefusco, 2-5, who had only three runs scored for him in the four games.

Garry Maddox led off the first inning for the Phillies with a single and moved to third on Jay Johnstone's one-out single. Luzinski then doubled in one run and Richie Hebner scored another with a groundout.

The Giants' Terry Whitfield opened the game with a single and moved to second on a bunt single by Madlock in the seventh.

The Phillies' third run scored in the seventh on Schmidt's seventh home run of the season.

McCovey's hit led off the second, but he never got any farther as Gary Thomasson, Tim Foli and Mike Sadek all fled out. Christenson retired the side in order in the third, striking out Montefusco and Derrell Thomas.

Braves 6, Pirates 1 — Atlanta broke its 17-game losing streak on a combined four-hitter by Max Leon and Rick Camp in Pittsburgh.

The Braves win also stopped Pittsburgh's 11-game winning streak.

Atlanta took the lead for good on Leon's sacrifice fly in the third inning off Bruce Kison. Kison is now 3-2 on the season.

'Quakes host Portland

SAN JOSE — The San Jose Earthquakes host the Portland Timbers tomorrow night at 8 p.m. at Spartan Stadium.

The game will be televised over KBHK-44 and KRRX-1500.

San Jose is in fourth place in the Southern Division, nine points behind Dallas and Los Angeles, who lead the division. The 'Quakes were last until their come - from - behind 2-1 win over the Vancouver Whitecaps Monday night.

"LA and Dallas do not have easy games this week," says San Jose coach Gabbo Gavric of the schedule, which calls for Dallas to visit Hawaii and Los Angeles to entertain Minnesota.

Paul Child and Geoff Davies share the San Jose scoring lead with two goals

The legend continues...

Mercedes-Benz creates a new generation of automobile. Introducing the new 280E; the Practical Sports Sedan.

Here is a wholly new Mercedes-Benz. A car which matches the practicality of a true 5-passenger sedan with the nimble handling of a sports car. An automobile that's uniquely in tune with contemporary automotive requirements. The new 280E. The Practical Sports Sedan.

The automotive world has always looked to Mercedes-Benz for ingenuity and innovation. And Mercedes-Benz has always responded with new automobiles that are unique in their timelessness and significance. With the dramatically new 280E Sedan, Mercedes-Benz has done it again.

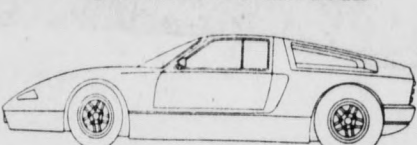

Work on the new 280E began in 1970. A select team of engineers devoted six years to its conception, construction and refinement. Years were spent simply designing the new tools that would be required to manufacture the new sedan. More years were given to testing "final" prototypes. As what follows suggests, the new 280E represents a worthy new chapter in the Mercedes-Benz legend.

The ultimate challenge

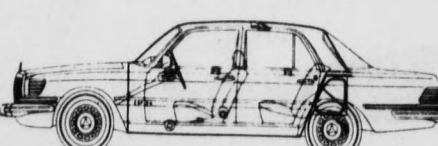

Probably the ultimate technical challenge an auto maker faces is the appropriate proportioning of size, weight and usable space. In the new 280E, the Mercedes-Benz engineers demonstrate their exquisite sense of proportion.

The 280E has a 110-inch wheelbase and is 190.9 inches long overall. Its maximum height is 56.6 inches and its maximum width is 70.3 inches. Its curb weight is 3530 lbs. "A" (windshield) pillars and "B" (side) pillars have been completely redesigned for reduced size and weight yet increased strength. In the rear seat area alone, the passenger compartment is nearly 5 feet wide.

Progenitors of the new 280E

The 200-mph Mercedes-Benz C-111. Pure laboratory on wheels.

The Mercedes-Benz ESF-24. Pure safety vehicle.

The Mercedes-Benz 450 Sedans. Pure touring cars.

In plain English, the new 280E has the look of the future. Lean, low and strong. Its silhouette is sleek and aerodynamic. Visibility is enhanced by an impressive 27.3 square feet of tinted glass. What's more, in the 280E, the Mercedes-Benz engineers have burnished their skills at putting the room in a car in the car. There is ample space for five adults. And the trunk offers a full 177 cubic feet of room — all of it usable.

The look and feel of a sports car... the practicality of a Mercedes-Benz Sedan. The new 280E — the Practical Sports Sedan.

Refined power

The new 280E's power plant derives from an engine more advanced than the engines in many pure sports cars. It is a refined version of the sophisticated Mercedes-Benz double overhead camshaft six. In the 280E, it has actually gained power. It is smoother, more responsive and produces 18 percent more horsepower than the previous version. And its performance has been enhanced still further with the addition of the new C.I.S. constant flow fuel injection system.

This ingeniously simple system automatically compensates for weather conditions, engine load and altitude — and meters precisely the amount of fuel you'll need for each individual driving situation. Precisely the amount.

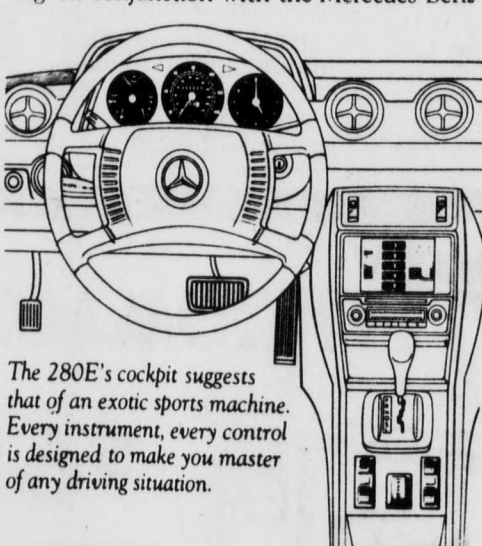

Handling:

An engineering masterpiece

The 280E features fully independent suspension systems. Each wheel has its own system, allowing it to react individually to the road surface. Moreover, each of these systems has its own nitrogen-filled shock absorber and coil spring to dampen road shock. And two separate and exactly designed anti-sway torsion bars keep body roll in check.

The improved zero offset front suspension alone is, quite possibly, an engineering masterpiece. Its progenitor is in the 200-mph test vehicle, the Mercedes-Benz C-111. It provides uncanny directional stability and braking. In conjunction with the Mercedes-Benz

The 280E's cockpit suggests that of an exotic sports machine. Every instrument, every control is designed to make you master of any driving situation.

recirculating ball power steering, it produces a quick maneuvering response and an incredibly tight 37-foot turning circle. And its ball joints are completely maintenance free.

Overall, the new 280E's extraordinary handling is the result of superbly conceived engineering synergism. A meticulously calibrated combination of power plant, suspension, wheelbase and chassis.

Safety x 100

A host of Mercedes-Benz engineering achievements have contributed to the unusual safety systems of the new 280E. Among them, the ESF-24 Safety Vehicle and the now-classic 450 Series Sedans.

In the 280E, the gas tank is located over the rear axle, deep within the body of the car. All controls are either padded or recessed and the entire passenger compartment is lined with padding materials. Front and rear crumple zones are newly designed to absorb shock geometrically and smoothly.

Each wheel has its own servo-assisted disc brake. Four-wheel disc brakes. The steering column is designed to telescope three ways. Front and rear bumpers are self-regenerative.

All told, over one hundred separate safety elements and systems have been combined in the new 280E Sedan.

$16,616 — an appropriate price

Along with its new engineering, the 280E offers an extraordinary array of purposeful and luxurious appointments as standard equipment. Electric windows. Cruise control. Anatomically contoured seats. Tinted glass. Quartz chronometer. Steel-belted radial tires. Climate control. AM/FM radio. This new sedan is so complete that its list of optional equipment is but 13 items long. And so the 280E comes with an appropriate suggested price: $16,616, excluding taxes, preparation and transportation, delivered on the East Coast.

What you get for your $16,616 is a new experience. A spacious yet trim Mercedes-Benz with the look and feel of a sports car — and legendary Mercedes-Benz engineering, craftsmanship, safety and value. The experience of driving the Practical Sports Sedan. The new Mercedes-Benz 280E.

Rams sign Joe

LOS ANGELES — Joe Namath, one of the most colorful and controversial players ever in pro football, officially became a member of the Los Angeles Rams Thursday when owner Carroll Rosenbloom announced the quarterback had agreed to terms.

The 34-year-old Namath, known as "Broadway Joe" during his long tenure with the New York Jets, thus will end his National Football League career as "Hollywood Joe."

The terms of Namath's contract with the Rams were not announced, and Rosenbloom said he'd met with Namath's attorney, Jimmy Walsh, to iron out a final agreement Wednesday night.

The Jets failed to pick up the flamboyant quarterback's contract at nearly $500,000 annually this year, after a two-year pact expired, and he became a free agent April 1.

"Every player dreams of being part of an organization like the Rams," Namath told a news conference. "They have a very high caliber of players, fine personnel. I am grateful to Mr. Rosenbloom and the Rams organization for bringing me here. I am also grateful to the New York Jets. They were good to me while I was there."

During talks with Namath, the Rams publicly maintained they would never pay the free-agent the high salary he received in New York and would go no higher than $200,000 a year.

Namath was said to be willing to take less money because playing in Los Angeles would put him in closer contact with the motion picture and television industries.

Namath will be one of four Los Angeles quarterbacks. Pat Haden was the starter at the end of last season when the Rams reached the National Conference finals, and James Harris was his back-up. The Rams also selected Nebraska quarterback Vince Ferragamo in the collegiate draft. Namath's role with the team was not clearly defined but it was believed he would play behind and instruct Haden.

Rusty Allan of Dublin fires a 78 to qualify for North Coast.

ney as individuals by virtue of their 18-hole scores, but a bittersweet occurrence forced Sisti and Voelker to play off for the final spot.

Sisti led team mate Voelker by a stroke until he bogeyed the 138-yard 17th. That forced the extra hole, which Sisti birdied for the win.

Voelker outdrove Sisti by 20 yards on the par-5, 493-yard first hole used for the play-off, but landed in a depression on the left edge of the fairway while Sisti was on a rise with a straightaway shot at the green.

Sisti smoked his second shot to within a few dozen yards of the pin while Voelker smacked his to higher ground along the cart path to the right of the green.

Those shots were the key, as Sisti chipped easily to within range of his eight-foot birdie putt, while Voelker stiffed his approach well past the cup and came up short on a 20-foot comeback putt.

Other low scorers, school by school, were Dave Konecny of Foothill, 80, Craig Mattoch of California, 90, with three-way ties for the best among Granada and Amador Valley.

Leo Hoffman, Mike White and Jeff Hoffman all had 83's for Granada while Frank Mona, Greg McAvoy and Paul LeClaire recorded the identical score for the Dons.

Little League roundup

Jones sparks Indian win

Steve Jones drove in the winning run in the bottom of the sixth inning as the Indians came from behind for a 4-3 win over the Dodgers in Farm Division action in the Granada Little Leagues.

Behind a double by Tim McFaddin and a triple off the bat of Paul Patterson the Dodgers took a 3-2 lead into the fifth frame, but the Indians scored once in that inning and another run in the sixth to wrap up the win. Steve Paich and Shawn McMahon each had an RBI for the Indians while Steve Ohlsen added a double to the winning cause.

Brad Mahaney drilled a home run and drove in two runs as Givens Electric ran its mark to 5-0 by defeating Astro Rentals 3-2.

Troy Rogers accounted for the other Givens tally, going two - for - two and knocking in a run. Both teams played without committing an error.

Dublin

Junior Silva recieved the pitching win and also had two singles and a double as the Hot Wheels crushed the Keglers 26-5 in a Dublin Little League Minor Division game.

In addition to Silva's hot bat, Rod Engberson and Mike Pate each had a pair of singles and a double and Julie Short pounded out two doubles for the winners. Paul Orman singled and doubled for the Keglers and Eric Friejelo added a triple.

Triples by five different players helped power the Doughboys to a 24-14 win over the Lumberjacks in a Minor division contest.

It's just good common sense to want great gas mileage these days. But there are more economies built into these Toyotas than just what you'll save at the gas pump.

Durability. It makes sense to buy a car that'll hold up. Toyotas are built to last. That's why you see so many older Toyotas still on the road.

Reliability. It makes sense to buy a car you can depend on. Toyota built its reputation with reliable cars. For example, you can't buy a new Toyota that doesn't have a transistorized ignition system for dependable starting. And there are 27 different Toyota models to choose from.

Value. It makes sense to buy a car that'll hold its value. A Toyota is like money in the bank, because Toyotas have traditionally high resale value.

*These California EPA results are estimates. The actual mileage you get will vary depending on your driving habits and your car's condition and equipment.

YOU ASKED FOR IT. YOU GOT IT.

Gaters host Phoenix Racquets

OAKLAND — The Golden Gaters, who handed Cleveland and high-priced Bjorn Borg a 24-22 setback at the Coliseum Arena Wednesday night to their home court this evening against the rival Phoenix Racquets.

The Racquets nipped the Gaters, 23-21, last week in Arizona, but Golden Gate was without Tom Okker, who lost a 6-2 set to the Nets' Borg Wednesday, and had to make use of short-term acquisition Andrew Pattison.

Free Gater pennants will be given away to the first 1000 persons through the gates tonight for the match between two teams within a game of Western Division leading Sea-Port.

Racquet star Chris Evert, no friend of Gater owner Dave Peterson who refused her salary demands and traded her before last season, has won just two of her five singles sets this season. Teamed with Kristien Shaw in doubles, however, Evert helped crunch Francoise Durr and Betsy Nagelson of the Gaters, 6-1, in the teams' earlier meeting.

Barbara Burton, left, and Christiine Schnitzer begin to shape up for a Drop-in program.

Women's 'shape up' session set

DUBLIN — Women can shape up for summer at a drop-in program at Camp Parks gymnasium from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. beginning Monday.

The program includes exercises, jogging, volleyball, badminton and basketball. Women can participate in one or all of these activities. Child supervision will be available for 50 cents.

This program is sponsored by Valley recreation agencies; namely, VCSD, Livermore Area Recreation Park District and the City of Pleasanton.

After entering the main gate at Camp Parks, continue on that 5th street past the fire station. The gym is just beyond the station. It is a large white and green building on the right side of the road.

For further information, contact the VCSD Recreation Departments at 828-7711, 447-7300 or 846-3202.

Spring tennis classes begin

DUBLIN — Get your racket restrung and begin attending Session II of Spring tennis classes beginning Tuesday, May 17 at Kolb Park on Brighton Drive in Dublin.

The Valley Community Services District Recreation Department is sponsoring the program. Registration is taking place at Shannon Community Center on Shannon Drive. The fee is $12 for eight lessons.

Classes will be held on Tuesday and Thursday mornings until June 16, 1977.

The class schedule is as follows: Intermediate adults, Tuesday and Thursday from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. Beginner adults, Tuesday and Thursday from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m.

Lions' sight screening van welcomes visits in Dublin

DUBLIN — The Sight Screening Clinic sponsored by the Lions Clubs of Alameda and Contra Costa Counties will be at Payless and Mervyns parking lot in Dublin from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. tomorrow.

The Dublin-San Ramon Lions Club arranged to have the clinic come to this area. There is no charge to the public for the screening service.

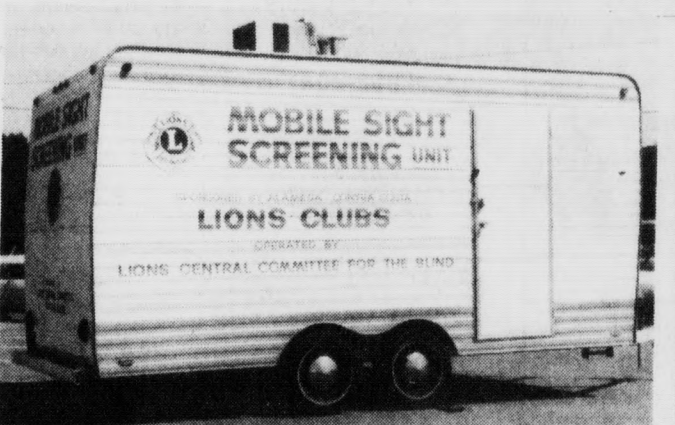

The unit is designed to screen visual function and eye health.

If the doctor finds someone needs further diagnostic testing, that person will be told to visit a doctor of his or her choice.

Lions Clubs worldwide are dedicated to aid the visually impaired and blind. They provide needy students with free eye examinations and corrective lenses if necessary. The Dublin-San Ramon Lions Club does these things in their area. Dublin-San Ramon Lions Club President, Stan Diamond, invites everyone to take advantage of this opportunity to get their eyes screened.

So, what's new?

Two dozen babies have arrived recently in the Valley, according to reports from two local hospitals.

Erika Hazen

Pleasanton 'cowgirl' is Hayward Rodeo aide

PLEASANTON — Local resident Erika Hazen will preside as hostess over the 57th annual Hayward rodeo this weekend.

Erika, 21, has been riding since the age of two. She is a senior majoring in animal science at the University of California, Davis. She is a rodeo team member in the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association and participates in breakaway roping, barrel racing and team roping.

A graduate of Fremont High, Erika is an active horse show participant in American Quarter Horse Association shows. She was queen of the Junior Grand National at the Cow Palace in 1973 and queen of the Folsom rodeo in 1974. She plans to attend Cal Poly at San Luis Obispo in the fall, working towards a master's degree in agricultural sciences.

The historic Hayward rodeo will be held at the Rowell Ranch off Interstate 580 between Castro Valley and Dublin, sponsored by the Hayward Rotary and Lions clubs.

Competing will be some of the nation's top cowboys. Starting at 1:45 each day, action will include bronc riding, bullriding, calf roping, steer wrestling and other traditional rodeo events.

Saturday will be family Day — one $9.50 ticket admits the entire clan. General admission at the gate is $4 for adults, $2 for kids. Reserved seats are $6; parking is free.

Advanced tickets are on

Keaton, W.C. featured in Shannon hub

DUBLIN — Come on up and see free movies of W.C. Fields and Buster Keaton Friday, May 20 at 8:30 p.m. in the Shannon Park Community Center.

The Valley Community Services District Recreation Department is sponsoring the showing of these classic comedies. The Alameda County Library is co-sponsor.

LEGAL NOTICE

Said Bidder shall secure and maintain such insurance policies as are required and submit evidence that such insurance will be in force for the length of the contract, and shall submit evidence of a valid State of California Contractor's License in the category required for the work being performed, and a current business license to conduct business in the City of Pleasanton, California.

The City of Pleasanton reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive any informality or irregularity in any bid, or to delete portions thereof.

Prevailing wage rates have been adopted by Resolution No. 75-59 by the City Council, and are on file with the City Clerk. It will be necessary for a notice of the existence of said resolution to be provided to each employee who works on the project or post the notice in a conspicuous place at the job site.

A Statement of Financial Responsibility, Technical Ability and Experience, and a list of Subcontractors shall accompany all proposals. Failure to furnish such statements may result in rejection of the proposal. Forms for these statements will be furnished by the City Engineer.

AUTOMOTIVE

WE DON'T WANT YOU TO LIKE US JUST FOR OUR BODIES

Sure we have one of the hottest selling automobiles to come down the pike in years. And sure some dealers would get a little complacent with the success story that Honda exhibits. And right again, some car dealers exhibit this successful arrogance by giving their client less service than they deserve.

But at Walnut Creek Honda we realize that repeat business is what really counts. A satisfied customer will be back year after year. That's why at Walnut Creek Honda we want you to like us for more than our beautiful cars. We want you to like us for the way we do business.

YOU'LL DEFINITELY SAVE MONEY BECAUSE WE SELL AND SERVICE HONDAS EXCLUSIVELY AT

All horsemen and horsewomen are invited to participate in the fifth annual Ride for Research on Mt. Diablo Saturday, June 11. Sponsored by the Danville Junior Horsemen, in cooperation with the Morris Animal Foundation, the event requires riders securing sponsors, with proceeds going towards further equine research at the University of California at Davis.

The event is open to both adults and youngsters. All contributions are tax deductible. For an entry card or more information call Mrs. Sims at 837-2205, Mrs. Beard at 820-0825 or Mr. Cardinet at 685-6716.

Beta Sigma

Art and painting will be the program at the next meeting of the Delta Zeta Kappa Chapter of the social service organization, Beta Sigma Phi. The meeting will be held Monday, May 16 at 7 p.m. in the home of Nicky Bachmann, who will conduct an art demonstration.

Preschool

Steppingstone Preschool in Pleasanton announces two sessions in its summer school program beginning next month. Emphasis will be on motor skills and outdoor education for two weeks, Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to noon.

Parents may register for the session which runs June 13-24, or June 27-July 8 at $40 per single session or $75 for both. The school will host an open house for interested parents Sunday, May 18 from 2 to 4 p.m. at 287 W. Angela St.

The school is under new ownership of Robert and Sherline Montgomery. For information call 846-5073.

Las Positas

Members of the Las Positas Chapter of the American Business Women's Assoc. will hold a dinner Saturday, May 14 at the Odd Fellows Hall, 2160 First St., Livermore.

The dinner begins at 7 p.m., followed by bingo from 8 to 10 p.m. The public is invited, and parking is available at the rear of the hall.

VA awards

Dedicated volunteers at the Livermore VA Hospital will be honored at an awards ceremony Sunday, May 15 at 1 p.m. in the Livermore Holiday Inn.

Over 150 volunteers will be honored for their work with the VA Voluntary Service. Thelma Stump heads the list with over 5000 volunteer hours, followed by Lenore Moyers and Charles Swift who both have over 2500 hours to their credit. The ceremony is part of National Hospital Week to emphasize this year's theme, "We Put the Care in Health Care."
